

Bombing Fails To Silence Red DMZ Shelling

SAIGON (AP) — An armada of American bombers pounded North Vietnamese gun and troop concentrations threatening U.S. Marines in the Khe Sanh valley for the sixth straight day today in one of the biggest air campaigns of the Vietnam war.

Despite nearly 6,000 tons of bombs and record air attacks for the third day in a row against the dug-in North Vietnamese, enemy guns continued to hit at the Khe Sanh base and the three strategic hills the Marines control just to the northwest.

By noon today, the North Vietnamese had dropped another 20 mortar and rocket rounds on the Marine positions protecting the northwestern approaches to South Vietnam 16 miles below the demilitarized zone.

The day's barrage followed on the heels of perhaps 300 rounds of heavy artillery, rockets and mortars that Communist gunners slammed into the combat base and the adjacent peaks Wednesday night, killing seven Leathernecks and wounding another 77. Of the 77 wounded, 37 had to be evacuated.

The North Vietnamese fired their 152mm guns, their biggest artillery, at Khe Sanh for the first time.

Expect Offensive

U.S. officers continued to expect a big enemy offensive against Khe Sanh. But the heaviest ground fighting reported was on the central coast some 230 miles to the southeast, where troops of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division and the South Korean Capital Division reported 179 North Vietnamese killed in fighting Tuesday and Wednesday near Phu Cat.

AP correspondent Peter Arnett reported from Marine headquarters at Da Nang that the Leathernecks apparently feel they can hold the Khe Sanh combat base but other positions in the neighboring hills are being dangerously squeezed.

Fire On Planes

Despite the massive aerial bombardment, four landing zones in the hills are still too dangerous for helicopters except in extreme emergency. The North Vietnamese are reported to be all around the hills with 50-caliber machine guns positioned so they can fire on cargo planes landing at Khe Sanh with supplies of ammunition and food.

Communist gunners in the hills have shot down three U.S. fighter-bombers in the past six days.

Another problem for the Marines is about 2,900 Montagnard tribesmen who want to be evacuated following the withdrawal of U.S. Marine and South Vietnamese militia teams from the town of Khe Sanh, 2½ miles south of the Marine combat base. The tribespeople have clustered around the wire perimeter of the Marine base.

Reds Repulsed At Korean Truce Line

SEOUL (AP) — As tension continued following the capture of the Pueblo, North Koreans tried to break through the American sector of the Korean front today and wounded eight U.S. soldiers.

The North Koreans also attacked a watch tower just south of the demilitarized zone with hand grenades but caused no damage, a U. S. Army spokesman said.

Sporadic shooting continued from about 2:30 a.m. until early afternoon. The Communists made attempts to break through the fence along the buffer zone, the American added.

The Communists infiltrators were all repulsed but it was not known if they suffered any casualties, the spokesman said.

Besides the eight Americans wounded, he said, two South Korean soldiers attached to the U.S. 2nd Infantry Division were killed and another was wounded.

This brought the American casualties in the two days of clashes to one dead and 12 wounded.

South Korean troops pursuing the remnants of the 31-man North Korean assassination group that invaded Seoul Sunday night killed two more of them today.

This made 19 members of the band killed, and another was captured. The invaders killed 16 South Koreans, including six civilians, and wounded 35.

South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah denounced the Communist seizure of the Pueblo, describing it as "one of the most serious threats to the security of the Republic of Korea and the Far East."

South Korean Navy sources said about 50 North Korean naval ships were assembled north of the military demarcation line off the east coast. The Coast Guard warned fishing boats not to operate close to the armistice line.

The North Korean radio broadcast today what it said was the voice of Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, the Pueblo's skipper, confessing that his ship was spying in North Korean territorial waters when it was captured.

There were only minor variations from a written "confession" issued earlier which contained a hint the North Koreans may release Bucher and his crew.

The voice delivered the statement hurriedly in a monotone, stumbling over some of the words.

Trio Named To Seek Copper Strike Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — A newly named federal panel may begin later this week trying to unseat the 6½-month-old copper industry strike that has idled some 60,000 workers.

Appointments of the three-member panel Wednesday night appeared to head off at least for the time being any decision by President Johnson to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act to produce a settlement.

Some Congress members from 20 copper-producing states have urged use of Taft-Hartley, under which members of the 26 striking unions would be ordered back to work during an 80-day cooling off period. The major issue is the unions' demand for industry-wide bargaining under which all contractors would expire at the same time.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Secretary of Commerce Alexander B. Trowbridge asked the panel to meet with both sides in the dispute, which has halted virtually all U.S. copper production.

Wirtz and Trowbridge named to the panel George Reedy, Johnson's former press secretary and now president of Struthers Research & Development Corp., in Washington; Dr. George W. Taylor, professor of industry at the Wharton School of Business, University of Pennsylvania; and Dr. R. G. Gorge Higgins, chairman of the National Catholic Conference in Washington.

A Labor Department spokesman said the group might be ready to begin talks toward the end of the week.

Other major issues in the strike, the industry's longest, include wages, pensions and fringe benefits.

But the biggest bar to settlement has been the unions' demand for industry-wide contracts. One of the major firms struck, Kennecott Copper Co., has filed an unfair labor practice charge with the National Labor Relations Board arguing that union efforts to force industry-wide bargaining are illegal.

The unions seek a 10% wage increase which now range from $2.61 to $3.68 hourly to a new range of $3.01 to $4.25 over three years. Phelps Dodge has offered a new range of $2.89 to $4.09 over the three-year period.

Three State Men Die In Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Michigan men are listed as killed in recent action in Vietnam, the Defense Department announced Wednesday.

Killed were Army Pfc. Kenneth B. Dean, husband of Peggy A. Dean of Albion, and Marine Lance Cpl. Rick D. Deeds, son of Mrs. Patricia L. Syer of Newport.

Listed as dead as a result of nonhostile action is Navy Machinist's Mate 2.C. Eugene T. Fraley, of Lansing.

14,000 Air Reservists Recalled By Pentagon

Failure To Aid Pueblo Blamed On Navy Brass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials have dropped squarely on Navy commanders in the Pacific the responsibility for not sending help to the intelligence ship Pueblo as she faced capture off North Korea.

They told newsmen Wednesday the decision against sending warplanes to the aid of the Pueblo was made by field commanders without asking Washington.

"There was no request from field commanders to Washington to take any steps," the officials said, and no instructions were sent from Washington to the ship.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara got the word of the Pueblo's troubles at 12:23 a. m. EST Tuesday, only 9 minutes before the Navy vessel sent its final message, officials said.

By that time, according to the Pentagon's chronology, the Pueblo had been boarded by North Korean sailors for about 38 minutes and ordered to follow Communist patrol boats into Wonsan Harbor.

One Call For Help

The Pentagon has said Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the small, lightly-armed Pueblo, asked for help only once—when the boarding began. This was 1 hour and 45 minutes after the Pueblo first was challenged by a Red patrol craft and ordered to heave to.

The Defense Department said Tuesday that "time and distance factors made it impossible to respond to the call that was made when the ship was being boarded."

But under questioning Wednesday, Defense Department officials introduced a note of uncertainty by saying they were unable to state why field commanders did not send aid.

These officials assumed the commanders had considered such factors as the potential enemy force on alert, the possible enemy reaction to the commitment of U.S. planes and the location of available U.S. airpower, among other things.

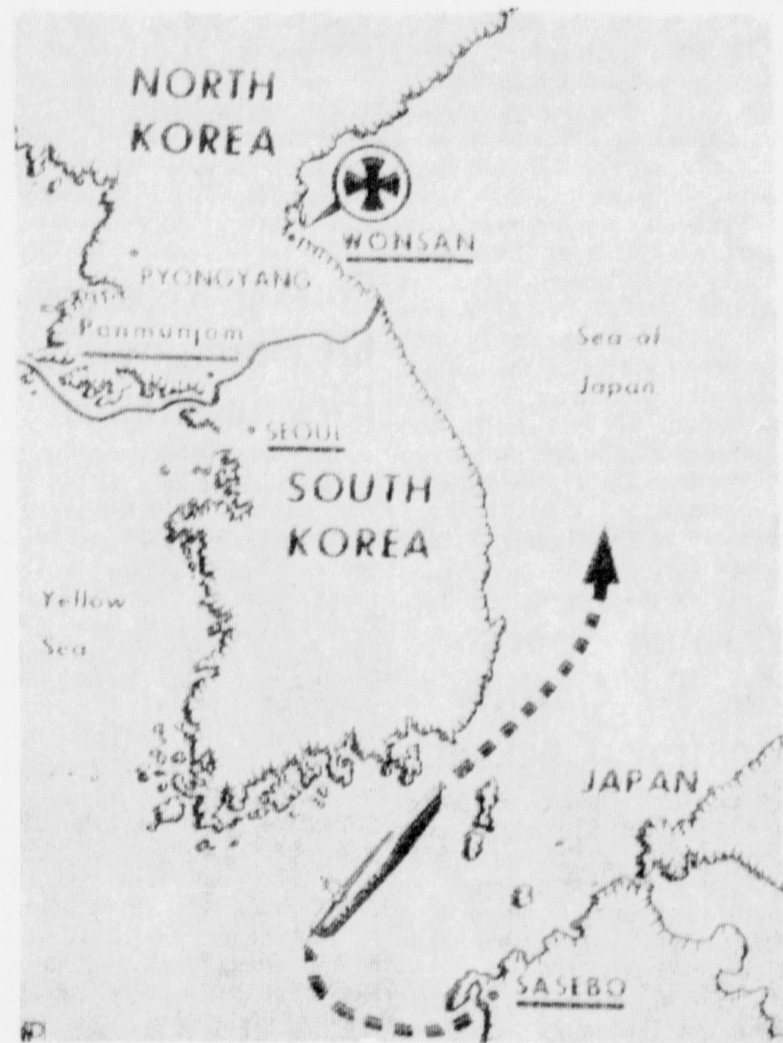

Forces Small

This implied the likelihood the United States could muster only a relatively small covey of jet fighters for a rescue operation, and that they might have met heavy opposition close to North Korea's home grounds.

There is a force of 18 U.S. Air Force jets at two bases in South Korea and some sources have suggested they could not have been made ready in time to have done the Pueblo much good. Another three U.S. squadrons totaling some 54 planes are stationed in Japan.

The defense officials—who disclaimed any intent to "conceal a foulup" if there was one—spoke of field commanders, but made it clear they meant Navy commanders to whom Bucher was subordinate.

"He reports to the Navy all the way through," said one official. He said he was unable to narrow the term field commander, but acknowledged the chain of command over the Pueblo goes at least as high as the Commander-in-Chief, Pacific, Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp.

DOTTED LINE indicates approximate route of U. S. carrier Enterprise which left Sasebo, Japan and cruised toward North Korea in wake of North Korean seizure of U. S. Navy patrol ship Pueblo. The latter ship reported she had been told to follow four North Korean patrol boats into Wonsan (cross.) In Pannunjom, Korea, the United Nations Command strongly protested the seizure and demanded immediate return of the ship. (AP Wirephoto)

Action Follows Red Seizure Of U.S. Navy Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 14,000 Air Force military reservists are being called to active duty in the wake of the North Korean takeover of a U.S. ship, the Pentagon announced today.

The Pentagon announcement followed quickly on the heels of word from the White House that President Johnson had called for the recall to active duty of a number of Air Force and Navy air reservists.

A Pentagon spokesman said the 14,000 are included in Air Force and Air National Guard units, and other Navy reserve units also are involved. No number was available immediately for the Navy.

Johnson acted shortly after Clark M. Clifford, his choice to become the next secretary of defense, had told a Senate committee that a call-up of U.S. military reservists could come about as a result of Far Eastern developments including the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korea patrol boats.

Johnson directed Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara to place on active duty enough men to man and maintain 372 fighter and transport aircraft. The White House said it did not know how many men would be involved.

Ground Force Next?

Press secretary George Christian, making the surprise announcement in the Pueblo crisis, raised the possibility of mobilizing ground forces by saying:

"When and if decisions are made on call-ups of Army or Marine Corps reservists, announcements will be made promptly."

Asked if such action was under consideration, Christian stuck to his statement.

The press aide, a participant in top level crisis talks at the White House, said the call-up of the air reservists was "only one action in this whole matter."

The presence of Arthur J. Goldberg, ambassador to the United Nations, at White House Pueblo talks had raised the possibility of some move through the United Nations to recover the intelligence ship and the 83 Americans captured with her.

As for continuing diplomatic efforts, Christian said:

"We certainly hope that they bear some fruit in the near future."

Under law, the reservists being called to active duty can be retained in uniform for 24 months.

Effective Immediately

The order is effective immediately but Christian said specific orders to individual reserve units had yet to be dispatched.

Johnson acted under a provision of the 1967 Defense Appropriations Act which states:

"Until June 30, 1968, the President may when he deems it necessary order to active duty any unit of the ready reserve for a period not to exceed 24 months."

When asked if any progress was being made on the diplomatic front, Christian simply responded, "efforts are still being made."

The press aide said, as was apparent on the surface, that the mobilization of air reservists was directly connected with the Pueblo crisis.

Asked why such action was necessary, he replied, "I don't want to interpret it."

He reported Johnson reached the decision at a breakfast conference with, among others, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Ambassador Goldberg.

The White House, as if to point this up, said Johnson and Goldberg exchanged views and "they will be in touch again during the day."

Morning Conference

Others at the breakfast conference were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs, press secretary George Christian and assistant press secretary Tom Johnson.

The White House said: "There may be other meetings during

Car Strikes Idle 50,000 Workers

DETROIT (AP) — Strikes by the United Auto Workers against General Motors in the United States and Canada left 50,000 workers idle today, 21,200 of them on strike and the rest idled off by resulting parts shortages.

No new negotiations have been scheduled between the UAW and Chrysler Canada Ltd. whose 10,000 hourly rated workers struck Wednesday over a new national contract. Local union and company negotiators for three struck GM foundries returned to the bargaining table today after meeting for more than 10 hours Wednesday, trying to end a local dispute over a union demand for six minutes of company paid wash-up time before lunch.

In other industry developments, final sales reports Wednesday indicated that new car sales for the industry during the middle 10 days of January were up slightly from the same period last year, the first such gain since the industry was first plunged into its current labor problems with a lengthy strike at Ford Motor Co. But sales were slumping at this time last year.

The Chrysler strike was prompted by company demands that work practices in Canada conform to those in the United States. The company has already promised to bring Canadian wages up to par with those paid south of the border.

Chrysler management has tried to take away in these negotiations, working conditions which its Canadian workers have fought years to gain, including several strikes, charged George Burt, the UAW's Canadian director.

"The union wants the wage level to be the same, but they don't want production practices to be the same," replied a company source. "They want one half, but not the other."

Pickets Delay Home For Senior Citizens

"A peaceful primary picket" by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 1832, today in Escanaba may delay construction of an apartment building to house senior citizens of low income.

The Carpenters are picketing the construction job held by Wausau Homes, Inc., of Wausau, Wis., under contract with Bethany Lutheran Church of Escanaba. The senior citizens retirement center is under construction west of the Church and Bethany Education building in the 1200 block, 1st Ave. S.

Efforts were being made today to bring together officials of the union and representatives of the church-sponsored project so that construction might be continued.

At stake for Bethany Lutheran Church is a gift of $35,000 from the estate of the late Atty. Helmer O. Ekberg, who was a native of Escanaba and was confirmed in Bethany Lutheran Church.

May Lose $35,000

Dr. Walfred E. Nelson, pastor of Bethany, explained that to meet the stipulations in the will of Atty. Ekberg, the project will have to be completed by March 1, 1968, although an additional extension of time to May 1 has been granted.

"This delay (the picketing) could cause us the loss of our $35,000 legacy," Dr. Nelson explained.

Neil Kositzky, Escanaba, business representative of Local 1832, issued a statement saying the picketing is for the purpose of "publicizing the fact that the employees of Wausau Homes work for wages and benefits that are below those which prevail in the industry in this area."

Hits At Pre-Fabs

"As a matter of simple economics, these substandard conditions tend to undermine the wages and benefits that have been negotiated for other employees and tend to limit the em-

Deaths In War Dip For Week

SAIGON (AP) — The number of men killed on both sides in the Vietnam war dropped last week, a period the U.S. Command said was a week of light to moderate action.

The U.S. Command said 218 Americans were killed, compared with 278 the previous week. The number of wounded went up, however, from 1,323 to 1,796. Of the 1,796 wounded, 949 required hospitalization.

South Vietnamese headquarters said 223 of its troops were killed last week, 750 were wounded and 71 were missing or captured. The week before these totals were 357 killed, 946 wounded and 110 missing or captured.

Enemy casualties last week were reported to be 1,842 killed, 767 of them by South Vietnamese forces and 1,075 by U.S. and other allied troops. A week before the total was 2,216 enemy killed.

The U.S. Command said other allied forces reported 19 killed last week, 36 wounded and none missing.

The report raised to 16,677 the number of Americans killed in combat in the war, according to U.S. figures and the number of American wounded to 103,993.

The U.S. Command said American military strength in South Vietnam increased 4,000 men last week to total 486,000 by last Saturday. The total the Saturday before also had been reported at 486,000 last Thursday, and spokesmen said the changes were administrative and represented "bookkeeping alterations."

Hewitt Named Highway Head

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney has announced the appointment of Democrat Charles H. Hewitt of Grosse Pointe Farms as the new chairman of the State Highway Commission, succeeding Republican Ardale Ferguson of Benton Harbor.

Ferguson had asked to be relieved of his duties as chairman for personal reasons, but will continue to serve as a member of the four-member, bipartisan commission.

Ferguson has served as chairman since the commission was formed in November, 1964.

Hewitt, 67, will take over the chairmanship of the constitutionally established commission Thursday. He, too, has served on the body since its inception. His current term, his second, will expire in June, 1970.

Coho Planting Sites

THE WHITEFISH RIVER in Delta and Thompson Creek in Schoolcraft county are to receive plantings of salmon next spring, among 18 sites on Lake Michigan and Lake Superior. The plantings are scheduled to be made in April totaling 1,800,000 fingerling coho at the 18 selected locations. There will be a smaller planting of chinooks in three locations, none of which are in this area. The fish will become adults by the fall of 1969.

Community Honors Women's Job Corps

MARQUETTE — The success of the Women's Job Corps has been brought about because of the willingness of the Marquette community to accept and support the program's goals, by the unqualified contribution of time, money and service."

With these words Northern Michigan University's interim president, Ogden E. Johnson, capulized the theme of the Community Recognition Day and open house sponsored Wednesday afternoon by the university and the Women's Job Corps Center on Northern's campus.

Johnson spoke in greeting to the nearly 250 persons assembled at a noon luncheon in the University Center, at which prominent persons from the university, the community and the state were guests.

Friendly Spirit
Featured speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Miriam A. Sheldon, president of the National Association of Women Deans and Counselors and dean of student personnel and dean of Women at the University of Illinois, who labeled the NMU Job Corps program "Operation Second Chance."

"Educational institutions and the professional organizations alike."

Dr. Sheldon also commended the area residents for sharing with the girls their "warmth and friendliness" in what she called a "generosity of spirit and kindness," and for giving the enrollees a chance to "prove what they're worth" in sharing with them Upper Peninsula "frontier hardness," —self-reliance, pride and self-respect.

As for the girls, the speaker said they would remember the NMU Center and Northern Michigan for its people and its beauty, and because here they "developed a sense of camaraderie and teamwork."

Following Dr. Sheldon's recognition day awards were distributed by Dr. Claud A. Bosworth, vice - president of public services at Northern.

Group Honored
The success of the Job Corps was helped by the services of "literally hundreds" of people, he said, including citizens of the area, NMU faculty and students, but 10 persons from the area were given engraved certificates of appreciation for what he called "outstanding service."

The ten cited, nine of whom were present, were Mrs. Roberta Bolitho, Mrs. Gladys Gant, Harvard Jean, the Rev. David LeLievre, Mrs. Holly Marlowe, the Rev. Edward McCracken, Jerry Pulliam, Fred Rydholm and the Rev. Glen G. Weber, all of Marquette, and Frank Sarvello of Ishpeming. Mrs. Gant was unable to attend.

Bosworth also recognized William Green director of enrollment services at the center, for "putting together the program". Green also arranged guided tours of the center's training facilities and Carey Hall, home of the nearly 300 Job Corpswomen, and reception in the university center to follow the luncheon.

Iron River Adds 10-Mile Event For Snowmobiles

IRON RIVER — A 10-mile cross country race has been added to the race program of the 2nd West Side Jaycee Snowmobile Derby this weekend.

Economic Expansion Periled By Inflation

By JOHN CUNIFF
NEW YORK (AP) — About one month from now this nation will complete seven years of economic expansion, 364 weeks of problems and prosperity which now, we are warned by its curators, is endangered by inflation.

So much has happened since February 1961 that, in recollection, most people would be surprised to realize that just seven years, not 20, have elapsed. Hippias hadn't yet made the scene. Women's knees were still unseen under long skirts.

There are many similarities, though, which remind us that a seven-year span is still a short time chronologically—no matter how many events have been crammed into it—not nearly time enough to elude the usual problems.

In February 1961 we were concerned that travelers were taking too many dollars abroad. Car sales were off. The United Nations was in a Congo crisis. Congressmen threatened. The economy was unbalanced. Jobs and taxes were problems.

Beginnings Muffled
The beginning of the boom was barely heard, perhaps because it was muffled in the controversy, pertinent at the time, of whether the nation was in a recession, which really is the starting point of expansions.

The recession debate became heated in the weeks following the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy, who was accused by Republicans of exaggerating the problems of the day. But then agreement was reached on the use of "recession."

In reply to a reporter's question, Kennedy stated: "To put it precisely ... I would call this a recession." And said Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., "Recede means to come down from a high level, and in that respect I guess we have a recession."

Produced Contrasts
The ascent during the next seven years has produced remarkable contrasts, so vast, in fact, that they make 1961 seem many more years ago.

For example, the Gross National Product—or the total of all efforts at mining, forging, manufacturing, assembling, preparing, serving—rose to a rate well over $800 billion a year from only $500 billion, although inflation has lately exaggerated the contrast.

Industrial output during that time soared. Using the average production of 1957 through 1959 as a base and calling it 100, output in February 1961 was 103. Now it is more than 160, much of it the result of new sciences and technologies.

The annual rate of personal income—the total of wages, rents, dividends and so on—jumped more than 50 per cent to about $650 billion from a bit more than $400 billion in February 1961. But this is a rather anonymous figure.

Income Boosted

In terms that perhaps have more relevance, the wages of common laborers in construction have risen from $2.77 an hour to more than $4 now. Skilled laborers now are earning close to $5.70 an hour, compared with $4.12. And the weekly pay of factory production workers has risen to more than $118 from $89.31.

Unemployment during this time has dropped sharply, from 6.9 per cent seven years ago to less than 4 per cent now, and the number of workers an economy can accommodate has grown by well over seven million men and women.

Anybody who has saved $500 deserves a reward.

Like 4½% interest.

Like a golden passbook.

Northern Michigan National Bank announces the Golden Passbook Account.

Open season for saving began June 1, 1967.

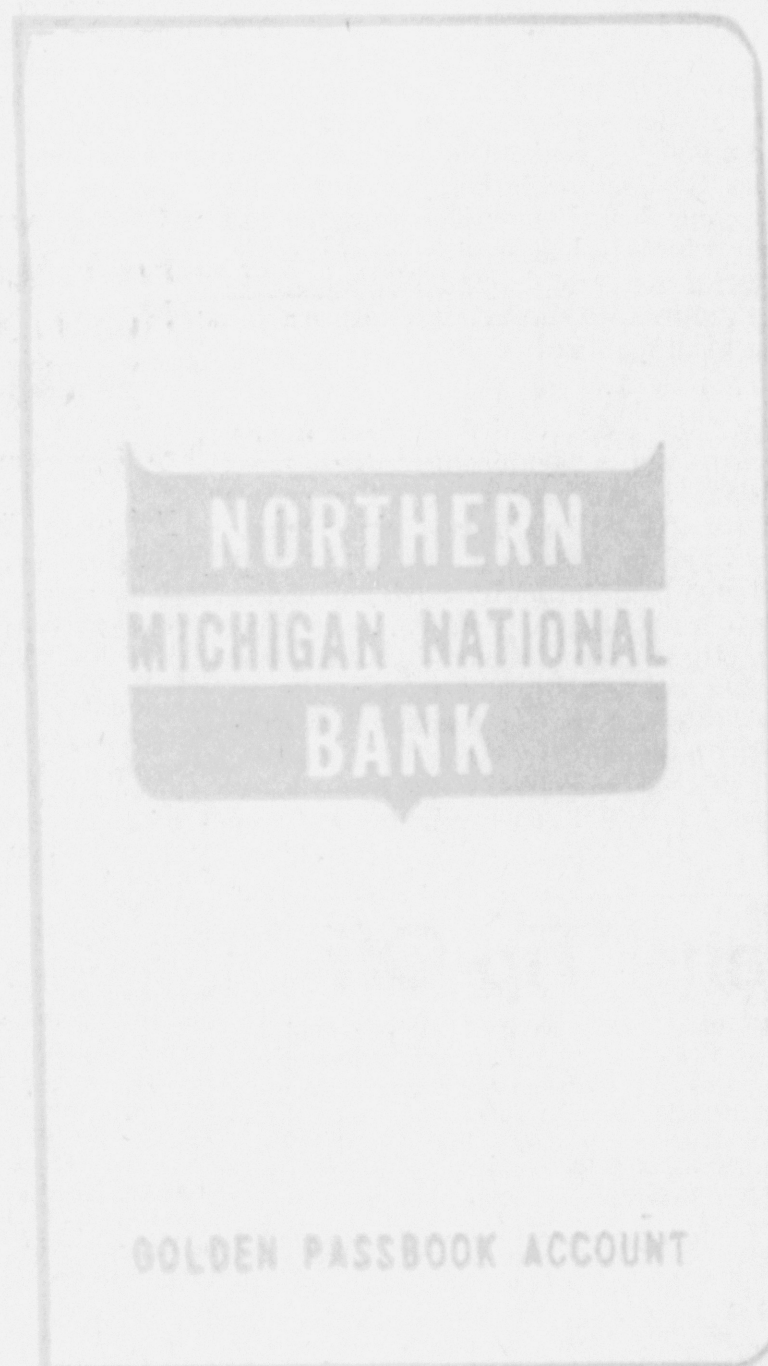

You can earn 4½% interest on your money, you can save with a passbook, and you can do both at the bank that serves all your banking needs.

All you do is open a Golden Passbook Account at the Northern Michigan National Bank.

Happens like this. You deposit $500 or more, for 90 days or more, in your Golden Passbook Account. You get a handsome golden passbook with your deposit listed inside. Your money earns a full 4½% interest per year, starting from the first day of deposit, credited semi-annually.

You start with $500 or as much more as you want. Add to it any time, in amounts of $100 and up.

Interest? Let it accumulate. Or have us transfer it to your Northern Michigan National Bank checking account. Or ask us to mail it to you semi-annually. Your choice.

Withdrawals? Just give us 90 days' written notice. You'll have your money and your interest.

4½%

Never before could you save by passbook and earn a big 4½% interest at a major full-service bank. Now you can—at Northern Michigan National.

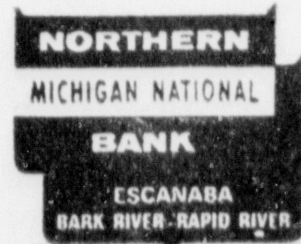

Come talk to us. At any branch of Delta County's most convenient bank.

A Golden Passbook Time Deposit Account at Northern Michigan National Bank will start your new saving season with a bang.

The Dodd Case

Moralists may say that Senator Tom Dodd, Democrat of Connecticut, betrayed his trust and gave the nation an example of boodling in high office. His case was so disturbing that the Senate censured him, although it did it with some reluctance and to the accompaniment of a chorus of political comment that if all the members of the Senate who were guilty of some of Dodd's faults were censured, the Senate would be tagged as a den of thieves.

The Senate's reaction of repugnance at censuring one of its members was not so much a tolerance of immorality as it was an understanding of the heavy provocations and temptations of office, that and a reluctance to single out for punishment one person among many sinners.

The evidence against Dodd was damning and he sent back some money that had been paid under double billing. His thought that the Dodd benefit dinners were to fatten his private purse and not pay his political bills was beyond political naivete. His association with German fast buck lobbyists was improper.

Dodd has paid a dreadful price for these faults. He has been publicly disgraced. His career is over.

But the process of exposing Dodd goes on and on and it raises as many moral questions for the American people as the trial of the senator by the Senate.

The charges against Dodd were made by his own office staff, especially his secretary, James Boyd, who has made almost a career out of gathering evidence against the man whom he so admired that he sought employment with him almost 10 years ago. When he had gathered enough evidence to think that he had hung his employer with involvement in shady if not illegal practices he went to that font of American morals, Drew Pearson, seeking the widest possible expose in the press.

He didn't, he said, go to the authorities because who would listen to accusations against a leader of the Senate? But he didn't have enough evidence for Pearson's office, either, so Boyd, who had been discharged by this time, burgled the Dodd office in the Senate Office Building, removed files of strategic cases, had them photographed in the Pearson office and returned them.

(Let it be a lesson to persons who think we can keep government secrets from the Russians.)

When the Pearson column started the Boyd revelations on Dodd's handling of political funds and relationships on legislation, Boyd said that his hopes of recognition for a great public service weren't realized. Just because he was a burglar and betrayer? (No doubt some cover-up processes were at work, but American sense of fair play was also involved.) Eventually, with the series starting to founder, pressures on Pearson got him to jazz them up and the censure of Dodd followed.

Now the James Boyd story is being told serially in the Saturday Evening Post. It moralizes that the end justifies the means, which is bad morals in any ethic. It is peddling a warmed-over scandal and William Buckley, the New York journalist dandy, tees off on the Post in his best surgical manner:

"Who changed?" he asks. "Boyd or Dodd? Yes, Dodd was censured — on a technicality which most knowing people admit a majority of U. S. senators would be censured for if they had been so unfortunate as to employ James Boyd as confidential assistant. And, of course, the continued persecution by Boyd and others of Dodd is saleable to a national magazine . . . and Dodd cannot sue because the Supreme Court has said that public officials cannot sue barring a demonstration of 'actual malice,' which — unless the archangel is subpoenaed — is seldom provable."

The aftermath of the Dodd case is as malodorous as the case. We have had sick humor and now we have a sick hero.

Also Rans' Tip-Off

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK (NEA)—In olden days, as we understand it, you gave serious consideration to a man and his opinions only if he had certain credentials—a bankbook, say, or a college degree or, at the very least, a baseball autographed by Babe Ruth.

But nowadays, what with everybody having a credit card, a Ph.D., or, at the very least, a telegram from the White House addressed to Price Daniel, nobody puts much stock in credentials like these any more.

In fact, the whole idea of credentials is pretty well worn out.

Nowadays, from what we hear everywhere, nobody will pay any attention to you whatsoever unless you have what is called a track record.

The term track record, of course, is borrowed from horse racing, and describes a horse's performance on previous times out. The theory is that a track record is a better indication of ability than a citation or letter of recommendation.

To our way of thinking, it is both an excellent theory and a virtuous practice as it rewards experience and achievement rather than inheritance and old school tie.

To cite one example, we know a fellow of poor but honest origins who rose to be the editor of three metropolitan newspapers and a national magazine which all went out of business. And with that track record, he has now established himself as an independent and successful consultant to editors.

That is one inspirational instance out of hundreds we might mention.

Another fellow, with a proven track record of extortion, tax evasion and jury tampering, now runs a nationwide organization from his jail cell.

Still another, whose track record as an expert on baby care is undisputed, was naturally selected to help lead the peace march on the Pentagon.

Then, too, there is a well-known man who rose from solid track record of being against Yale and in favor of God. Today, that man has a television show and a magazine of his own where he can talk about anything he likes.

Well, we could go on at will with this list. Suffice it to say that it is nearly as long and varied as the roster of people in public life. But in every case, the moral is the same, namely you must establish a track record if you want to be taken seriously.

Some have done it by writing two Broadway flops in a row, or by being Nazi scientists. Some have done it by having been cuckolded in public. Some have done it by being teenagers, or Mafia members.

We know of many cases where solid track records were also built by simply being born, married to, divorced from, or running unsuccessfully against a Kennedy.

But whatever the variety of track records today, there is always room for more. And no matter what kind, just so long as it is a track record.

If congressional candidates are made out of former child actresses, and senatorial and gubernatorial candidates come from leading men and hoofers, who can tell what office Jane Fonda can aspire to now that she has taken off her clothes.

Widows And Orphans Can Get Social Security Aid

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Some five million survivors of deceased workers are drawing Social Security payments in this country.

The face value of the survivorship insurance program is said to range upwards of $700 billion. About 95 per cent of mothers and children in the nation have protection under it.

There was a time when the whole government burden for caring for dependent children fell upon out-and-out welfare programs. But this has changed.

In mid-1940, only 18,000 orphans under age 18 were drawing Social Security survivors' benefits. The total now is in the range of two million. Meantime, the number of orphans getting strictly welfare payments under the aid-to-dependent-children program has been slashed in half. (For other reasons, this latter program has grown, overall.)

Social Security officials stress that maintaining Americans' incomes in old age is not just a matter of retirement benefits but is, crucially, a question of survivors' insurance for widows. They can get little other help than that provided by Social Security.

If these women have worked, they tend usually to have been "secondary earners" who have left the labor market at a fairly early stage.

Under present law, widows who are not disabled can begin drawing Social Security survivors' benefits as early as age 60. But if they apply for this payment before age 62, their benefits are somewhat reduced.

At 62, the widow of a worker who was properly insured under Social Security is entitled to 82 and one-half per cent of her husband's "primary benefit" — what he would have received if he had lived to retire at age 65.

If she decides to start collecting at 60, she gets only 71 and one-half per cent of her late husband's primary benefit. If she chooses age 61, she gets 77 per cent.

Of course, if the widow has an unmarried child under 18 or

People who whistle while they work should sit next to themselves for a few hours some trying day.

Plan to take next week off. You won't get the time, but it's fun to plan.

The age of a salmon can be determined by the number of growth layers in its earbone, which leaves something to be desired in the way of how-to information for the fisherman.

Occasionally, too, a widower qualifies, but he likewise must be at least 62 and must show that he depended on his late wife for at least half his financial support. The widower gets 82 and one-half per cent of her basic benefit.

Since retirement benefits all go up under the 1967 law, survivors' payment are correspondingly lifted to higher levels.

Opening Lead Tells Story

West took a long while to select his opening lead. He went over the bidding carefully and finally came to the conclusion that his partner's spade raise had been based on four good trumps and little else. Then he started to work out the North-South holdings. Obviously, South held minimum high card strength with probably a six card suit, three spades and doubletons in each minor. That would give North one spade, two hearts and five cards each in diamonds and clubs.

A trump lead was indicated to stop dummy's potential ruffing power and West almost had the ace of hearts out of his hand and on the table. It was lucky that he reconsidered and led the deuce of hearts instead. With the ace of hearts lead South would have had no trouble making five or six odd, depending on whether West cashed a spade at trick two.

The deuce of hearts lead was an entirely different proposition.

osition. South couldn't draw trumps because West still held the ace. If he led a spade West would win, lead his ace of trumps and take two more spade tricks.

South saw all this and also saw an extra shot or two in his locker. He played out his ace and jack of diamonds, entered dummy with a high club and led a high diamond. East ruffed and South overruffed.

Then South led a second club. He thought about taking the club finesse but decided that it was wrong and he would go down two if he tried to make the hand that way.

Also, he would still make his contract if East had started with only two trumps so South rose with dummy's remaining high club and led a fourth diamond. East ruffed that also, and South had lost a game contract that would have made against any lead but the one that West had selected.

Griffin Aids In Romney Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney is enlisting Michigan congressional allies to join his New Hampshire presidential primary campaign.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., said he plans to go to New Hampshire in Romney's behalf, and some of Michigan's new Republican House members also may go.

Romney returned to New Hampshire Wednesday on his second campaigning stint in preparation for the March 12 primary. He will be there until Sunday.

Griffin was elected to the Senate and five new Republicans went to the House on the Michigan ticket which Romney led with a landslide two years ago. Griffin said part of his New Hampshire mission would be to remind Republican voters that Romney proved in that race he can help other GOP candidates win elections.

ROK Troops Kill More Reds

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — While the United States massed a show of force off North Korea in an attempt to obtain the release of the captured U.S. Navy ship Pueblo, South Korean troops reported today they had killed nine more North Korean commandos who invaded Seoul Sunday in an attempt to assassinate President Chung Hee Park and other high officials.

This made a total of 15 of the 31-man band of assassins reported killed, and one more has been captured. The hunt for the other 15 continued.

The North Korean infiltrators have killed nine South Koreans and wounded seven, including an army colonel shot today as he led his men in an encounter on Mt. Nokosan, 10 miles north of Seoul. The colonel's unit killed four Communists, and one escaped.

Farther north of Seoul, in the western sector of the demilitarized zone, three American soldiers were slightly wounded early today in an exchange of fire with four North Koreans infiltrating south through the barrier fence along the truce zone.

Ann Landers Well Upholstered, Dislikes Fat Barbs

Dear Ann Landers: What gives you the right to insult people and call it "advice?"

Through the years you have printed several cruel and hurtful letters about fat people but the last one really got to me. The notion that a woman would eat herself out of shape in order to discourage her husband's love making was plain crazy. I nearly gagged when you agreed with the nosey sister-in-law that her hunch might be right.

It's time we fat people stood up for ourselves. I say to you, Ann Landers, and to others who can't resist the vicious barbs, leave us alone. Our size is a highly personal matter. If we'd rather eat and enjoy life than walk around half starved, mean, and skinny, whose business is it?

I've seen pictures of you, but only the head. I wonder what the rest of you looks like. It wouldn't surprise me if you are a fat lady who is trying to fool people by printing anti-fat letters.

I know you'll never publish this one but I feel better for having written it.—WELL UPHOLSTERED AND NOT ASHAMED

Dear Well Upholstered: Now that you feel better, go make a batch of fudge and reward yourself for telling me off.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has three brothers, a sister, an ex-wife and six children by that marriage. When he and his wife were divorced he gave her everything she asked for and has been Johnny-on-the-Spot with the support checks for several years.

Not one member of his family has shown the slightest interest in this man even though he is diabetic and in poor health. He has never received so much as a card on this birthday, Father's Day or Christmas. When he used to call his children on the telephone they hung up in his ear. He doesn't call them any more.

When my husband passes away I will have to make the burial arrangements. Should I notify his relatives? He has asked that I not do so. What is my duty?—A HOUSE DIVIDED

Dear H.D.: Your husband's wishes should take precedence over custom, since it is obvious that he is not considered a member of the family. When he passes away, notify the newspaper. His relatives will learn of his death and will come to the funeral if they wish to.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is 18 and in her first year of college. Judith is an attractive girl, a reasonably bright student, has a nice figure and always dated fine young men when she was in high school.

When Judith came home for the holidays she announced that she is in love with a 28-year-old college student who is divorced and has four children. He told her some dreadful things about his ex-wife which makes me wonder why he allowed her to keep the children. Also, how can he pay support money and go to college when he has only a part-time job? So many things do not add up that I am frightened out of my wits that he is a four-flusher.

I always thought our daughter was a level-headed, feet-on-the-ground type but I was mistaken. How should I handle this situation?—S.L.C.

Dear S.L.C.: You have undoubtedly let Judith know how you feel about the young man. Now cool it and keep quiet. If all the mothers who propelled their daughters into poor marriages by nagging were laid end to end they'd reach from here to maternity.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits—the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex—Ten Ways To Cool It." Send 50c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Child Neglect Problems Told

Today many parents are not certain of what ethical and moral concepts they believe in, Michael DeFaut, Judge of Probate of Marquette County, told the Escanaba League of Women Voters and members of the Escanaba community Monday evening.

Judge DeFaut, accompanied by Allen Carpenter, director of the Marquette Family Demonstration Project, conducted a panel discussion on delinquency and neglect problems with respect to the Upper Peninsula, and with particular emphasis on the Marquette Demonstration Project.

Judge DeFaut deplored the fact that in most Upper Peninsula cities the county jail was the only place to house the delinquent child. Two years ago plans were drawn up for a regional detention facility to be built in the Upper Peninsula. This facility could care for delinquent and neglected children for as little as a day or two or as long as six months or a year.

Expect Castro To Shift Title

HAVANA (AP) — An unusual meeting of the Cuban Communist party's central committee has aroused speculation that Fidel Castro may change his titles while retaining power over Cuba.

The speculation was that Castro might resign as prime minister and concentrate more on Communist party affairs, while still directing government policy from his No. one position within the party.

The prime ministry would become a government administrative post, according to this theory, and Castro would turn it over to his brother Raul, now deputy prime minister and chief of the armed forces, or to President Osvaldo Dorticos.

The unusual aspect of the central committee meeting was that it was announced in advance. Observers could not recall this happening before. And the announcement referred to Castro as the party's general secretary, rather than first secretary, which he has been since the party was formed in October 1965.

Reed To Direct Legal Institute

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Dr. John W. Reed, dean of the University of Colorado Law School since 1964, has resigned to become director of the Institute of Continuing Legal Education. The institute is sponsored jointly by the University of Michigan, Wayne State University and the State Bar of Michigan, and Reed will become professor of law at both U-M and WSU. Reed served on the U-M law faculty from 1949 to 1963.

Reaction Cautious On Romney Budget

LANSING (AP) — Except for anticipated Republican satisfaction and Democratic criticism, Gov. George Romney's proposed $1.3 billion budget for fiscal 1968-69 drew generally guarded reaction today.

The reason appeared to be that lawmakers and agency heads were still sifting through the 66 page budget booklets, trying to figure out just what the budget—highest ever sought by a Michigan governor—means to them.

"The level of expenditures is about what we expected," commented House Speaker Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, while House Appropriations Committee Chairman Arnell Engstrom, R-Traverse City, described the budget as "a pretty good start."

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, who also is Democratic state chairman, accused the GOP presidential hopeful of talking out of both sides of his mouth concerning federal aid to the state.

Levin Critical
"This message is a clear example of the governor's failure to translate his constant call for 'bold' new programs into effective action to solve the crucial problems facing Michigan," Levin said.

Levin accused Romney of campaigning in New Hampshire, criticizing national administration policy and saying what he has done in Michigan without federal help.

Romney then "submits a budget which is short on new state programs and relies heavily on cooperation with already instituted federal programs," Levin charged.

He accused Romney of drawing on federal funds to help finance 19 different programs, including those in conservation, urban and local government, education, law and order, water pollution control, traffic safety,

Agrees On Bombing

He described the budget as "lacking" in the area of imaginative new proposals to get at the causes of urban crisis, adding that none of the proposals are designed to provide immediate help.

Romney's call for $5 million for educationally underprivileged children and $3.96 million for housing construction are repeat requests for money which Democrats have previously sought, the party leader said.

Only in the area of seeking a $335 million bond issue for water pollution did Levin find Romney's proposals "sound," adding that the Democratic party has been advocating this for years.

In the area of education, Romney suggested expenditure of $705.7 million, an increase of more than $126 million in aid to Michigan public education, including a boost of $79.4 million in aid to elementary and secondary schools.

Aid Boost Coming
"An initial analysis of the budget recommendations of the governor as it pertains to the basic membership allowances indicates that his recommendations are far below the minimum requests from the State Board of Education," said state schools Supt. Ira Polley.

Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, R-St. Louis, predicted that the K-12 figure would be

"We are very pleased with it, although you must realize that a good portion of this will go for the salaries of our additional manpower and the general salary increase."

"We have our work cut out for us, not only in crime and traffic but in other areas, and this will enable us to do a better job next year," Davis added.

Local Benefits

Conservation officials said they had not had time to analyze the Conservation Department's general fund recommendations, including two general obligation bond issues, totaling $435 million to purify the state's waters and provide for park acquisition, recreation and fisheries.

"It is worth pointing out that in both these bond issues the local units of government will benefit the most," said Robert Burke, chief of the department's Administrative Services Division.

Meanwhile, Sen. Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, head of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which along with the House Appropriations committee trimmed Romney's 1967-68 budget from a recommended $1.133 billion to $1.101 billion, admitted he hadn't gone through the booklet closely.

"But," he added, "they're always too high until we have a chance to look at them."

Returns To War To Spare Older, Married Brother

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A battle-scarred 19-year-old soldier is heading back to Vietnam for the same reason that brought on his earlier tour—to keep his older brother from having to serve there.

Spec. 4 Thomas Clark volunteered for the war zone 10 months ago so that the brother, Spec. 4 Gary Clark, 22, could remain in this country with his wife, who was expecting a child.

The younger Clark, who suffered a fragment wound in the shoulder and returned home on leave, now is volunteering for an extension because Gary again has orders to Vietnam.

"He wanted to stay but didn't want me to go back and risk my life again," Thomas said Wednesday. "I convinced him it was better for him and his family if I went."

"I knew how he felt about the baby and his family," said the younger brother, who is unmarried.

Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith are parents of a son born Jan. 22 at the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital at Manistique. The baby weighed 11 pounds, 3 ounces. Mrs. Smith is the former Rhoda McGahan.

Mile Run Opens Reserves Called In Pueblo Crisis

Romney's Drive

NASHUA, N. H. (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney ran an early-morning mile at the Nashua YMCA today, then advised New Hampshire voters who admire New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that "the second course" is to support the Romney campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

"Nelson Rockefeller has indicated in every way he can that he's supporting me and will continue to support me," Romney said in an interview on a local radio station. "And I think that if the people who regard him as highly as I do will listen to him, they will recognize that the sound course is to do what he's telling them to do."

Romney's campaign manager, William R. Johnson, has acknowledged that one problem facing his forces in the race for the New Hampshire presidential primary is the hope of some potential supporters that Rockefeller himself will become a candidate for the nomination.

Johnson has said this has led some potential Romney allies to remain silent.

At the YMCA, Romney donned a grey sweat suit and ran around the gymnasium with a group of businessmen who called themselves "Rusty's Rangers."

The 60-year-old Romney ran at the head of a pack of 70 men of various ages.

His workout done, the governor gave a pep talk on physical fitness and citizen involvement in politics. "I happen to believe that the one hope of this country is to get more people concerned and more people involved," he said.

Picketing Delays Work On Senior Citizens' Home

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who has opposed U.S. policy in Vietnam, called the capture "an act of war" and added: "The ship must be returned at once, with all Americans aboard. Our national honor is at stake here."

At the Pentagon a spokesman traded long-distance verbal rounds with North Korea over an alleged spy confession by the Pueblo's captain and Defense Department officials sought to absolve Washington headquarters of any responsibility for not speeding air help to the Pueblo before her capture Monday night.

Defense officials said that when North Korean gunboats apprehended the small, lightly-armed intelligence ship around midnight Monday EST, U.S. Navy commanders in the Pacific area decided against sending warplanes.

Washington was not consulted in the decision, officials said.

Pentagon sources also said the Pueblo's skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher ordered his vessel's sophisticated electronic gear and secret codes destroyed when the Reds boarded.

Questions Unanswered
Still unanswered publicly are such questions as why the Pueblo did not get help from U.S. forces in the area, or wasn't scuttled, or didn't fight.

Phil G. Goulding, assistant secretary of defense, denounced as "a travesty on the facts" the Communist claim that Bucher confessed to a deep intrusion of North Korean waters.

He said both the Pueblo's reports and the North Korean's own radar—tracked by U.S. monitors—"show conclusively that the Pueblo was in international waters."

Other Administration sources maintained the ship was always several miles outside the Reds' claimed 12-mile limit.

Goulding said of the alleged Bucher confession: "The style and wording of the document provide unmistakable evidence in themselves that this was not written or prepared by an American."

Claim CIA Missions
Radio Pyongyang in the North Korean capital broadcast Bucher's purported 700-word statement, in which he allegedly admitted carrying out spy assignments for the Central Intelligence Agency.

"I and my crew have perpetrated such a grave criminal act, but our parents and wives and children at home are anxiously waiting for us to return home in safety," said Bucher's alleged confession, concluding: "Therefore, we only hope, and it is the greatest desire of myself and all my crew, that we will be forgiven leniently by the government of the Democratic People's Republic of Korea."

Administration sources reported that at a meeting Wednesday of the Military Armistice Commission at the Panmunjom, Korea, truce site the North Koreans rejected a U.S. call for release of the Pueblo and her 81 sailors and two civilians.

Soviets Frigid
In Moscow, a similar plea by U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson to Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov was said to have met a frigid reception.

U.S. officials said there is no evidence the Soviets even passed on the American request to their Communist Korean allies.

After reporting to the House Foreign Affairs Committee, Secretary of State Dean Rusk did not rule out considering the Pueblo's seizure as a possible act of war. But his emphasis was on diplomatic means to free the ship and her men.

Johnson reportedly was weighing these factors—among others—involvement in trying any military solution.

—An air strike might "teach North Korea a lesson" without gaining the objective of rescuing the ship and crew.

Nuclear Threat
—A U.S. invasion of North Korea could bring the Soviet Union or Red China to their ally's aid, leading to a major war with a nuclear showdown hanging over it.

—Any diversion of U.S. forces to a new area would weaken American defenses, already stretched thin elsewhere around the world.

The Enterprise and three other U.S. combat ships have already been diverted from planned Vietnam duty.

The Soviets, it was reasoned in Washington do not want to risk a general war either. So having scored their points in the Communist world with Kuznetsov's rebuff of the first U.S. ship release plea, it is hoped they may prove more receptive to a second U.S. request.

Thant Informed
The United Nations is another diplomatic route eyed by the administration, sources said. So far, Johnson has not put the ship issue to the world body but has kept Secretary-General U Thant informed.

One presumption in Washington is that the Soviets want to get their hands on the Pueblo's modern electronic gear for at least a week or 10 days so they can learn all its secrets. But to the extent that it may have been destroyed, they presumably would need more time to patch the items back together.

Some officials figure the Soviets will quietly press their North Korean colleagues to return the intelligence prize—at least after the Soviets have had a look at it.

After Rusk's closed session with the House Foreign Affairs Committee, one member, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, said: "I don't want to put words in his mouth but I gather he feels that after they have looked over the equipment they will give it back."

Wood Market Expected To Re-open In Spring

By JEAN WORTH

The constant talk from Washington about the affluence of America doesn't apply to the Upper Peninsula of Michigan's logging this winter.

Things are quieter than usual in the forests this winter. There's more apt to be the motor noise of a snowmobile in the forest than that of a chainsaw taking down balsam firs.

The recreation business in the forests is the best ever with snowmobiles everywhere. They are as common on trailers as boats are in the summer.

Crisis In Forests

But the logging isn't booming in this cold weather season when the heaviest production of timber occurs because it is possible to move wheel traffic over frozen marshes and other wetlands that aren't passable in the summer.

The slow state of wood production was completely unforeseeable. For the past couple years there has been a crisis in wood production and warnings that there'd have to be a revolutionary change to assure enough wood for the Lake States' wood industries, because:

1. Workmen's compensation insurance was prohibitively high (it is).

2. There wasn't enough woods labor. "Who wants to work with snow down their neck and their heels frozen when they can get a factory job with lots of pay fringes?"

3. Logging methods were antiquated and should be modernized by mechanization, with tree harvesters replacing the husky lumberjack with his chainsaw.

Too Much Wood

But last year, seemingly all of a sudden, there was too much wood again. The paper mills closed their wood yard gates to avoid being buried in it. The glut persists, but it has been eased somewhat, though not impressively, by closing the woodyard gates.

The old sign was hung up again: "Don't cut wood unless you have a sales contract."

Wisconsin paper mills have been taking in only as much wood as they were consuming and that hasn't been at a boom volume because business is somewhat sluggish and the industry has built up a productive capacity that is greater than the market needs at the present.

Much less pulpwood is being produced in U.P. forests this winter than could be, or than was produced in recent winters.

The cutoff on pulpwood has caused a heavier production of sawlogs and veneer logs than usual as loggers turned to other work to earn money. Fortunately these markets have remained lively.

Spring Opening

Wood industry sources look for an opening of the wood market in the spring. This is traditional as the contracts for summer-cut wood are issued then, but the seasonal change will be specially meaningful this spring because of the large inventory problem of the pulp mills.

The hope of the logging industry is that there will be an increased commitment for summer wood over last year. The state of the papermaking business will be strongly influential on this situation.

For long range operations the paper industry counts on a continuation of a historic increase in paper usage as the population increases and consumer goods volume grows, but the past year has shown that there still can be violent short range dislocations in the wood market.

2 Boat Shows Open Saturday

DETROIT (AP)—There may be snow on the ground, slush in the streets and ice a foot thick on the Great Lakes, but Michigan boatmen know that the 1968 boating season is just around the corner.

The signs are there. The first heralds of the season—the boat shows—have arrived.

As usual, there will be two boat shows in Detroit, one at the Detroit Artillery Armory on Eight Mile Road and the exhibition in Cobo Hall.

The hull thumpers who intend to see both the Detroit shows will have to exert some fancy footwork, however.

For some unexplained reason, the promoters of the shows—one sponsored by the Michigan Marine Dealers Association and the other by a Detroit exhibition outfit—selected the same week for their respective shows, Saturday through Feb. 4.

The Michigan Marine Dealers' exhibition, the 10th annual, will open at noon Saturday at the Detroit Artillery Armory, 15000 West Eight Mile Road. Throughout its run it will close at 11 p.m.

On weekdays it will open at 3 p.m.

Some 150 dealers and manufacturers will display more than 600 boats as well as a bewildering array of marine and water sports hardware accessories and gadgets.

The show in Cobo Hall, a production of Exhibitions Inc., is titled, "The Michigan International Boat, Sports and Vacation Show." It will be in halls "A" and "B" and will run from noon until 10 p.m. Saturday through Feb. 4.

The promoters said the show will have the largest display of sailboats in Michigan, including a 50-foot fiberglass Columbia. A distinction of the show will be the unveiling of a houseboat by Chris Craft. This boat was not ready for the National Boat Show in New York and so will get its first public launching in Detroit.

Economic Club Head Retires

DETROIT (AP)—Gen. Lester S. Bork will retire as president of the Economic Club of Detroit on June 30, after six years of service. No successor has been named.

Bork once commanded the Michigan Military District for the Army.

B&PW Club Members Enjoy Tour Of Lebanon

A tour of his native Lebanon was the subject of an interesting travelog by Dr. Alfred A. Gossan at a meeting of the Escanaba Business and Professional Women's Club held Tuesday evening at the Sherman Hotel. Mrs. Manley Anderson of the membership committee, presided.

Situated on the Mediterranean Sea, he said Lebanon is like Florida or any other resort area and visitors can vacation there for about one-third the amount of other areas.

The cities have many high rise apartment buildings and modern resort hotels and one may swim in the hotel pools or on the beaches of the Mediterranean.

Lebanon is 150 miles long and 135 miles wide. Cities and villages alike are lighted with modern mercury vapor lamps. The people of Lebanon are pro-western and relations with the United States have always been good, Dr. Gossan said. The Cedars of Lebanon is a famous ski resort which is frequented by people from all parts of the world.

The scenery is beautiful with much natural rock in the area which is used to build homes to withstand earthquakes. Roads are very narrow and small cars are very popular.

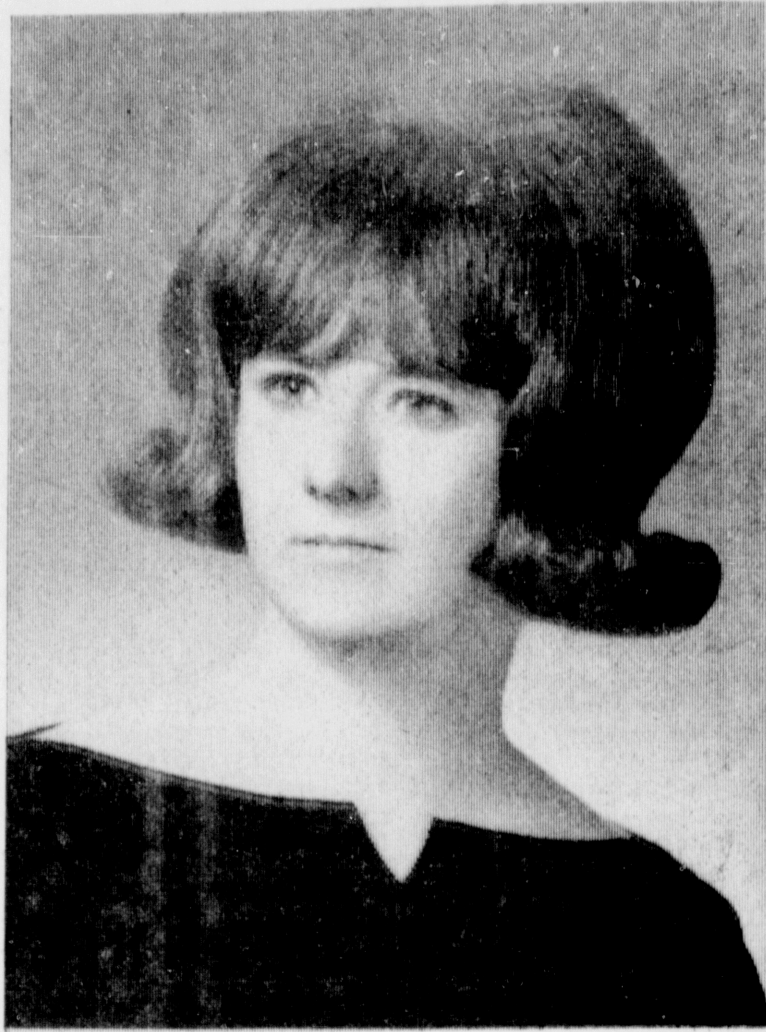

Lebanon is not as industrialized as the United States and is mostly agricultural. About half of the people are Moslem and half are Christian.

Leaving the capital, Beirut, Dr. Gossan said, you reach Jeita in half an hour, then on to Byblos, from which the Bible received its name. The alphabet was also born in Beirut.

Colored slides of points of interest and cities in Lebanon were also enjoyed by the members.

A club orientation ceremony for new members was conducted by the membership committee, Pearl Witte, chairman, Mrs. Manley Anderson, Mrs. Caroline Nystrom, Viola DeBen, and Mrs. Norma O'Brien. Also taking part in the ceremony were Mrs. Jean Kasun, Marian Oliver, Alice Kvam and Club President, Mrs. Ardyth Flaherty. New members were presented with a corsage at the close of the ceremony.

New members include Mrs. Catherine Hogan, Mrs. Ella Nagelkirk, Mrs. Ruth Sedenquist, Josephine Saykly, Marjorie Saykly, Mrs. Louise Blanchette, Mrs. Bonnie Maki, Mrs. Charles Schmidt, Mrs. Lavina Moss, Elizabeth Lavolette, Mrs. Betty Mallard, Mrs. LaVergne Deloria, Mrs. John Birkmeier, Mrs. Agnete Liu, Mrs. Gunnar Pearson, Mrs. Eileen Johnson, Regina Quinlan, Mrs. Louise Weissert, Mrs. Dorothy Duca, Mrs. Della Peterson, Mrs. Velma Smith, Mrs. Harland Hanson and Mrs. Fred Saykly.

Politics, Diamonds Mix At Benefit Ball

NEW YORK (AP) — Politics and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and partying, demonstrators and diamonds were features of a $150-per-person benefit ball Wednesday night. The guest list was headed by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

A crowd of antiwar demonstrators ranging up to 300 in number milled outside the Plaza Hotel on Fifth Avenue in advance of Humphrey's appearance at the annual Diamond Ball for the Institute of International Education. Most of the pickets had left by the time Humphrey arrived—almost an hour late.

Police said 33 of the demonstrators were arrested and charged with disorderly conduct.

Inside the hotel, meanwhile, about 400 guests sipped cocktails and gazed at the $257,000 worth of diamonds on display in a heavily guarded case and at the uncounted thousands of dollars of diamonds worn by the women.

No Comment

Although Humphrey refused to comment either on domestic or international affairs, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., discussed issues with newsmen.

Questioned about the incident involving North Korea and the USS Pueblo, Mansfield said, "I would hope we would keep our emotions in check and keep our shirts on. There's too much we don't know."

Percy agreed, commenting only, "Those who, in the administration, have command of all the facts, should make the decisions minute by minute."

Others on hand for the ball included Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler, Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., George Woods, president of the World Bank,

Job's Daughters Plan Special Program Saturday

Bethel 9 of Escanaba, International Order of Job's Daughters will present a program honoring Masons and Eastern Star at the Masonic Temple on Saturday Jan. 27 at 7:30 p.m.

A cordial invitation is extended to all Masons, Eastern Star, Job's Daughters, DeMolay, family and friends to attend this special program which Job's Daughters are presenting as a tribute to their parent organizations. They would especially like to invite past Job's Daughters and past Council members to join them for this occasion.

Honored Queen Kay Ness, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ness of 2101 Lake Shore Drive, has dedicated her term to cementing the ties that bind Job's Daughters to their parent organizations.

1967 marked the 100th year of Masonry in Escanaba and Job's Daughters are very happy to share in this celebration.

HURLEY'S

Secrets of Beauty

Your hands can do you good or do you in, depending on you. Neglected, they can shatter the illusion of glamour, no matter how much time and money you spend on hair-do or make-up. Proper care and grooming of your hands will compliment the rest of a well kept you, setting off all the rest of your grooming to the best advantage and this doesn't cost money in the form of expensive treatments. In fact, you can do most of it yourself at the expense of just a little effort; however, a good professional manicure at regular intervals will be a great help. The thing to remember is that your hands need daily care. Always keep in mind the fact that the body is changing, aging, and nothing reveals age so well as our hands. So... eternal vigilance is the price you pay for youthful hands.

Truly, beauty begins with your hair. Put your head in our skilled hands and let us create an individual hair style designed just for you... Phone 786-0663... today... HURLEY'S HAIR FASHIONS... 111 N. 9th. TIP OF THE WEEK:

DRUG SCRIPTS

W. J. Bisdee

It may be somewhat surprising to the layman that approximately 90% of the prescriptions filled today could not be filled 3 decades ago for the simple reason that one or more of the prescribed drugs was then unknown.

The era of the wonder drugs beginning in 1936 ushered in a startling and welcome increase to mankind's rather tenuous hold on life. Although the term "Wonder Drugs" is sometimes considered an extravagant copy writer's creation, there is no discounting the fact that the life expectancy today is a full decade greater than in 1936. Much of this astounding increase is directly attributable to the so-called wonder drugs and to the improved surgical techniques they helped to bring about.

Reliance on new and improved drugs is not the entire answer, however, accurate prescriptions are a must for the well being of the entire family. When Kids Want Cookies

MODERN KIDS, like old-fashioned children, love cookies — especially when they're made with peanut butter and filled with mincemeat.

By The Associated Press
Cookies and more cookies, that's what Mom bakes when she wants to please the kids. While you're pleasing the youngsters, cater to your own thrifty self by using up that mincemeat leftover from other baking. Let it top peanut butter cookies.
But do drain the mincemeat before you use it. Mincemeat—the ready-to-use kind that comes in jars—usually has a fair amount of liquid so it's best to turn it into a strainer and let it drip, stirring a few times to help along the draining. Even with the mincemeat drained, these cookies soften a bit after overnight storage in a tightly covered tin box.
Peanut Butter-Mincemeat Cookies
1 1/4 cups unsifted regular flour (stir to aerate before measuring)
1/2 teaspoon baking soda, regular
1/2 cup margarine

2/3 cup smooth-style peanut butter
1/3 cup granulated sugar
1/3 cup firmly packed light brown sugar
1 large egg
1/2 cup (about) drained mincemeat
On wax paper thoroughly stir together the flour and baking soda
In a medium mixing bowl, cream the margarine, peanut butter, granulated sugar and brown sugar, beat in the egg. With a wooden spoon, work in the flour mixture.
Using 1 level tablespoon for each, shape into balls; place a few inches apart on buttered cookie sheets. With your fingers pat down each ball so as to make a wide shallow hollow—don't worry if the edges crack. Put a generous 1/2 teaspoon of mincemeat in each hollow.
Bake in a 350-degree oven until lightly browned around edges—about 10 minutes.

With a wide spatula remove to wire racks to cool.
Cookies have a "sandy" texture; they will be crispest when first baked; stored overnight in a tightly covered tin box they soften slightly.
Makes about 36.
NOTE: No salt is called for in this recipe; the margarine and peanut butter supply enough.

House Defeats Coroner Ban

LANSING (AP) — A bill to abolish the office of coroner in certain counties was itself in need of a coroner today, after being killed by the House during a brief session Wednesday.
The bill, requiring that elected coroners in counties over 100,000 population be replaced by medical examiners who would be doctors, met apparent death after the House refused to accept the compromise version written by a House-Senate committee.
Any county now may replace coroners with medical examiners. As originally introduced by Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, the coroner bill would have required all counties to do so.
The Senate passed an amended version applying only to counties over 100,000 and the House rejected the concept of mandatory replacement entirely.
Critics of the coroners said non-doctors are not competent to perform medical duties such as determining the cause of a victim's death.
"Nobody has presented evidence of any kind to show the coroners are doing a poor job," replied Rep. Roy Spencer, R-Attica.
The 48-45 vote by which the compromise version failed split the two funeral directors in the House.
Rep. William Jowett, R-Port Huron, a former coroner, opposed the measure, while Rep. Robert W. Davis, R-St. Ignace, voted for it.

Auxiliary Hears Hubbard Talk On Hospital Change

The Women's Auxiliary of Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital held a dinner meeting Monday, Jan. 22 at St. Francis de Sales Parish Center. The dinner was served by St. Elizabeth's Circle.

Mr. Carleton Hubbard, hospital administrator, was guest speaker. He spoke on some of the changes made since he has been with the hospital and of changes for the near future. Mr. Hubbard also explained the services the Medical Care Facility offers and asked for the Auxiliary's help in making lap blankets and bibs. He expressed appreciation from the Board of Trustees and himself for the contributions the Auxiliary has given the hospital in the past.

The meeting opened with the hospital auxiliary prayer read by Mrs. William Drefs.

The musical program for the evening consisted of accordion selections by James and Margaret Weber and William Perri. Piano selections by: Brenda Webber, Sandra Webber, and Linda Pirola.

New members welcomed were: Mrs. Rolit Harrison, Mrs. Roy Briggs, Mrs. Melvin Gold and Mrs. Signe Cameron.

Nominating Committee reported that Mrs. Clarence O. Peterson has accepted the office of first vice-president and Mrs. William Males, second vice-president.

Mrs. James Carlson and Mrs. Clarence Peterson will serve as Hospitality and Membership Committee. Mrs. Harold Cockram, chairman, reported on the Service Cart Committee.

Auxiliary members voted to make 24 pairs of slippers to be used by patients at the hospital. The sewing committee will be: Mrs. Emmett McNamara, chairman; Mrs. Max Osterhout, Mrs. Alvin Nelson, Mrs. Dino Pirola, Mrs. Russell Watson, Mrs. Clarence W. Peterson, Mrs. Ida Carlson, Mrs. Irene Starick, Mrs. Lloyd Neville, and Mrs. Herbert Krause.

The Auxiliary also voted to purchase material for 20 bibs to be used at the Medical Care Facility. These bibs will be made by a group of ladies at the Bethel Baptist Church.

Seventeen Auxiliary members volunteered to make and provide material for lap blankets for wheel chair patients at the Medical Care Facility.

Cut In Spending Crimps Colleges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense and space agency spending for research at universities is being sliced by 20 per cent this year. A private government memo says the cuts threaten programs and jobs at some schools.

Other government agencies also are reducing research spending, putting an additional squeeze on the academic community.

Universities that exultantly rode the government research roller-coaster to a $1.6 billion crest are beginning to tremble on the ride downhill.

Faculty and staff hiring in some areas is near a standstill. Graduate admissions for next September probably will be cut. Some schools are hunting more intensively for private money.

Shirley A. Johnson Jr., director of research at the University of Denver, said, "If we feel a cut here we'll just have to decrease our activities." His school did $3.27 million in Defense Department business last year and also has seven space agency contracts.

Hurts Graduate Area

"We're hurting in the graduate education area," said James J. Brophy, academic vice president at Illinois Institute of Technology, where government research finances one-third of the entire academic program.

Defense officials expect private schools with little or no endowment—Denver and IIT, for example—to be hurt more than state universities such as Michigan and California, or heavily endowed private schools like Stanford and Harvard.

The Defense Department talked with officials at 33 schools to measure the impact. The private memo reported:

—"The cuts have just not hit them yet but are only beginning to be felt."

—Schools "realize it is going to get worse, will probably peak next spring (when contract decisions will be made)."

Technicians To Go

—"Because impacts haven't hit yet, no firm plan of how to deal with them has evolved at any institution interviewed."

—"There is general agreement on priorities: Post-doctoral fellowships in-take in school year 1968 will be reduced ... no investment will be made in major pieces of equipment and technicians will be let go ... the number of graduate students admitted will be down this year ... some faculty members' summer salaries will not be covered as in the past by grants and contracts ... the more affluent universities who believe that the trend will change in '69 will commit some of their own private resources to tide them over during this period."

Cost $1 Billion

The government spent about $1.6 billion for college and university research in 1967. Overall research and development obligations totaled $17.5 billion—but they're being cut about $1 billion in the 1968 budget year.

Defense Department research support to schools is dropping from $284 million in 1967 to about $225 million this year.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration cut its sustaining university program from $30 million to $10 million, and lopped about $9 million from the $87 million in program research that went to universities in 1967.

In addition to the research cutback, colleges and universities also face a $208 million deferral in spending for new campus construction by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Defense Department is either slowing the effort or shortening the contracts for projects it would continue full tilt if it had the money.

Projects affected by the NASA cutback won't be abandoned—they have phaseout money appropriated in earlier years.

Jackson Prison Auctions Off Its Canning Machines

JACKSON (AP) — Canning equipment, unused since Jackson phased out its operations in 1966 in which 4½ million pounds of fruits and vegetables were processed annually, will be auctioned Friday morning.

The auction will be restricted only to men, since women are prohibited within the prison walls.

The equipment, purchased for $100,000 during the last 25 years, was used to can asparagus, tomatoes, corn, carrots, beets, green beans, peas and apples grown on prison farms.

Up to 500,000 cans were sent yearly to various state institutions.

Coming under the Michigan State Industries at the prison, the canning factory was closed due to operating expenses and to a shortage of prisoners.

Thirty inmates served on the normal staff, but their numbers swelled in peak season to 300.

The closedown left the Michigan State Industries, which operates prison programs for various other state institutions and agencies, with five plants at Jackson.

They include license plates, metal stamping, shoes, combination garment and tailoring, and textiles.

Who Will Be No. 1 Draft?

ST. PAUL - Minneapolis (AP) — Who will have the distinction of being the No. 1 draft choice in professional football's 1968 college player draft next Tuesday?

Barring an unforeseen 11th-hour trade of their bonus selection, the Minnesota Vikings will make that pick shortly after 10 a.m. EST, Tuesday. And the Vikings aren't saying who they may tab.

It could be Kevin Hardy, Notre Dame's giant defensive tackle, or linebacker Fred Carr of Texas Western, or quarterback Gary Western of UCLA, or offensive tackle Ron Yary of Southern Cal.

"We've narrowed the field down to four or five," is all that Vikings' General Manager Jim Finks would say Wednesday. "Now we're in the process of making contact with these prospective draftees."

"We're checking things like recent injuries, military status, and so fourth."

"We still haven't made a decision and we may not until Tuesday morning. And we won't announce it even if we have made the decision before that."

It still is possible, although apparently not probable that the Vikings will trade the bonus selection they received last year from the New York Giants as part of the Fran Tankentom trade. Minnesota could have exercised the bonus last year, but

Northern Cagers Host Final Foe Before Rugged 3-Game Road Trip

MARQUETTE — Unbeaten in seven straight games, and sporting an overall 9-2 record, Northern Michigan's basketball Wildcats make one more appearance in front of the home fans before leaving on a week-long three-game road trip.

Saturday night NMU entertains Wisconsin State-Stevens Point at 8 p.m. CST in the C.B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse. Sunday morning the Wildcats cagers leave Marquette for a Monday night game at Purdue, then head into Texas to tangle with Lamar Tech Wednesday night and Pan American Friday night.

Northern, idled by first semester exams, has played only three games since winning the Wayne Classic in Detroit before Christmas. Coach Stan Albeck hopes the Saturday meeting with WSU-Stevens Point will serve to sharpen the "Cats for their tough road trip.

"We aren't overlooking the Pointers, however," Albeck warned. "They've got a big, strong club and will be one of the tallest teams to play in the fieldhouse this season."

The Pointers are led by 6'8" junior center Mike Hughes, who is averaging better than 22 points and 17 rebounds per game. Hughes is aided by 6'4" forward Tom Rittenhaler, who averages 14 points and 10 rebounds per contest.

Monday night at 6:30 CST Northern meets Rick Mount and friends from Purdue in the Boilermaker's new 14,500 seat basketball arena in Lafayette, Ind. The game will feature a rematch between Mount and Northern's Ted Rose who first squared off in the Indiana-Kentucky all-star series two years

Randy Matson Gets Top Athlete Award

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Randy Matson, the towering Texan who is the world's champion shot-putter, thinks that winning the Sullivan Award is the second nicest thing that could happen to him. Winning a gold medal in this year's Olympics would be the nicest.

Undefeated Long Island University moved into first place in 'The Associated Press' small-college basketball poll today, shading twice-beaten Evansville by one point in the voting by a national panel of 14 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Blackbirds, No. 1 for the first time this season, hurdled both Evansville and Kentucky Wesleyan in taking over the top position from the Purple Aces. The Panthers from Owensboro, Ky., dropped to third.

LIU collected six votes for first place and 110 points in the latest poll based on games through last Saturday. Evansville had three votes for the No. 1 spot and 109 points, the latter on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, down to 1 for 10th.

Kentucky Wesleyan had 98 points. Southwestern Louisiana is fourth followed in order by Southwest Missouri State, Indiana State, Trinity, Tex., Guilford, Pan American and Lincoln, Mo.

In last week's games, LIU won its 12th straight by downing Philadelphia Textile 76-65. Evansville, 11-2, was beaten by Ball State 91-82 after defeating Valparaiso, 97-74. Kentucky Wesleyan, 9-3, trounced Kentucky State 125-80.

Southwestern Louisiana, idle last week, climbed two positions and replaced Indiana State in the No. 4 slot. Indiana State slipped to sixth after losing to Butler, a major team, 86-85.

Whites, Negroes Drill Together To Avert Split

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — White and Negro basketball players practiced together Wednesday averting a split that threatened to spread through the University of California's entire sports program at Berkeley.

All 15 members of the Golden Bear squad — 11 white and five Negroes — headed Coach Rene Herrerias' orders to report to Harmon Gymnasium and settle down to preparations for the next game — against Air Force at Colorado Springs, Feb. 2.

"We are here because we want an education and we want to participate in sports," said Bob Presley, the high scoring, 6-foot-10½ Negro center whose brief suspension last week brought on the controversy.

The reasons for Presley's suspension were not disclosed. But when he was restored to good grace, white members of the team charged that Herrerias had been subjected to pressure by the university administration.

The white players, threatening to quit unless Herrerias was given a free hand, said race was not a factor in the incident. They accused Presley of skipping practice, being hostile toward teammates and critical of the coach.

Presley contended he was

Texas A&M senior beat out three women in different fields to win the Sullivan Award as the outstanding amateur athlete of 1967.

"I was real surprised to learn that I have been named to receive the award. It is a great honor. I feel like it is perhaps the highest award an amateur athlete can get. The gold medal in the Olympics is the only thing that would surpass it," Matson said Wednesday on being informed of his selection.

Matson, who is more than twice the weight of his two closest rivals, received 787 points from 1,000 amateur sportsmen, sports writers, broadcasters and former Sullivan Award winners in the Amateur Athletic Union poll.

Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., recognized as the world's No. 1 woman tennis player, received 579 points; Deborah "Debbie" Meyer, 15-year-old swimming star from Sacramento, Calif., had 528; and Peggy Fleming of Colorado Springs, Colo., world figure skating queen, received 486.

Five points were given for a first place vote, three for a second and one for a third.

Shattering records ever since he was at Pampa, Tex., High School, Matson bettered his own world mark last April 4 when he hurled the 16-pound ball 71 feet, 5½ inches. In the 1964 Olympics he won a silver medal, second to Dallas Long, but the following year he shattered Long's world record with a heave of 70 feet 7¼ inches. He is the first and only 70-foot shot putter.

While most shot-putters spin and shove the ball with a grunting effort, the 22-year-old Matson uses a flip wrist action, making it appear as easy as tossing a baseball.

Weight lifting is the way Matson prepares for the shot put. "Gotta build up my strength. I now bench press 400 and do 450 in the squat . . . but a fellow always wants to be stronger. That's the only way to improve throwing the shot," he said recently, adding, "Just working at throwing the shot can't make you very tired."

Matson has thrown the discus 213 feet, 9¼ inches, an unofficial American mark, but he has given it up, for the present at least, because he says it interferes with his preparations for the shot put.

Matson says he isn't even thinking of a career in pro athletics until after the Olympic Games in Mexico City but ad-

Red Wings Snap Losing Streak

CHICAGO (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings won their first game in eight tries Wednesday night, dumping the Chicago Black Hawks, 4-2, in National Hockey League action.

Third-period tallies by Gary Bergman and Bruce MacGregor made the difference for the Wings. The loss was the fourth straight for the Hawks and ended their winless streak to seven.

Chicago remained tied for second place in the Eastern Division with Toronto, two points behind the Boston Bruins. Boston was defeated 2-1 by New York Wednesday night while Toronto fell 2-1 to Philadelphia.

It was a night for goal tenders as Detroit's George Gardner came out ahead of Chicago Denis DeJordy. The Wings fired 44 shots at DeJordy while Gardner faced 43.

The Hawks took the lead early in the first period on Ken Wharmar's power play goal with the Wings' Kent Douglas in the penalty box. But Gary Jarrett squared it at 14:57 on his 14th goal of the season.

Dennis Hull's 10th goal moved the Hawks ahead at 5:04 of the second period, but Norm Ullmann's shot bounced off DeJordy's glove into the net to even the score at 12:06.

Bergman's winning tally came on a 70-foot slap from neutral ice. The puck slanted past DeJordy's left shoulder before he could make a move.

MacGregor's clincher came on a rebound of Doug Roberts' shot.

Pistons Recall 6-8 Sonny Dove

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Pistons recalled 6-foot-8 forward Lloyd "Sonny" Dove Wednesday from the Pontiac Tomahawks of the North American Basketball Association.

The 22-year-old former star from St. John's of New York was sent down to the minors earlier this season so he would have an opportunity to play more.

The recall of Dove, who averaged about 15 points a game at Pontiac, raised the Pistons roster to 11, one below the National Basketball Association limit.

mits he likes football better than basketball. He has been drafted by Atlanta of the National Football League, Dallas of the American Basketball Association and Seattle of the National Basketball Association.

In addition to Matson, Miss Meyer is expected to compete at Mexico City and Miss Fleming will be favored to win a gold medal in the Winter Olympics at Grenoble, France.

Half of the 14 Sullivan Award nominees were women.

Palmer Defends At Los Angeles

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The 42nd annual Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament got underway today with Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, the main target of his brother professionals.

The scene, transplanted from nearby Los Angeles, was Brookside Park, a revamped course located adjacent to Pasadena's famed Rose Bowl. For this tournament, Brookside measures 7,021 yards, with par 36-35-71.

Palmer, who first won the Los Angeles Open in 1963, made it two in a row a year ago with a 72-hole score of 269. The site was the par-71 Rancho Monte layout in West Los Angeles.

Whether Brookside will be easier or tougher remains to be seen during the four rounds of golf coming up. But the pros didn't exactly slaughter things in Wednesday's pro-am.

Only 16 pros managed to break par in their individual efforts, while Palmer had a 73 and Billy Casper a 72.

Leading the way with three-under par 68s were Mason Rudolph, Charles Coody, Howie Johnson and Dave Hill.

Al Geiberger, Dave Marr, Charley Sifford and Steve Spray made the tour in 80-degree weather in 69, while the 70 group included Frank Beard, Gay Brewer, Bob Goaly, Tommy Aaron, George Knudson and Bruce Crampton.

Young pro Marty Fleckman of Port Arthur, Tex., shot a hole-in-one on the 182-yard 17th. He used a 6-iron and the ball took one bounce and plopped into the hole.

Bus Ride Helps In Home Clash

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Suppose you're a basketball coach and your team wins on the road and loses at home. What to do?

Tony Laterza at Akron University might have the answer. He took the squad for a bus ride.

The Zips had been practically unbeatable at Memorial Hall, winning 52 straight until Winston-Salem stopped them last year.

Since then, they dropped four of six and two in a row at home, but won seven of eight on the road.

Before the Mount Union game Wednesday night, Laterza took the squad by bus to nearby Medina for dinner. The players then returned to Akron and walked into their own gym — just like visitors.

The Zips shot 50 per cent to beat Mount Union 68-39.

Pete Maravich

'Pistol Pete' Guns Cats

BATON ROUGE, La. — (NEA) — If a Louisiana sports fan tells you it's been a successful month for LSU, you assume he means the Tigers' Sugar Bowl victory over Wyoming on New Year's Day. Could be, though, he's referring to the Southeast Conference basketball contenders.

By winning their first four SEC games this season, the Bayou Bengals have already surpassed their total number of wins for last year's entire season. After finishing last in the league the past two years, LSU is now a threat to nationally ranked Kentucky and Tennessee in the '68 race.

Should the Tigers triumph it would be their first conference title since 1953-54, when a guy named Bob Pettit supplied the firepower. LSU has finally come up with another big gun — a sophomore called "Pistol Pete" Maravich.

The 6-5, 180-pound guard from Raleigh, N.C., is the nation's leading scorer, averaging around 46 points per game. He popped in 58 against Mississippi State and scored 20 points in the last nine minutes in the Georgia game, finishing with 42 for the night. Similar performances helped the Tigers take a 5-1 SEC record into the final exam week break.

What makes it more exciting to LSU fans is the fact that four of the starters are sophomores. And Ralph Jukkola, the team's only junior, is hitting nearly 70 per cent of his field goal attempts. He's first in the conference and second in the nation in that department.

The Tigers' height, or lack of it, is another interesting aspect of their success. Jukkola is 6-3 and guards Jeff Tribbett and Rich Hickman are both only 6-0. Center Randy Lamont, at 6-8, is the only giant. Still, Maravich and his mates are getting their share of the rebounds. But when Pistol Pete starts firing there's usually no rebound to be had.

Florida's Tommy Bartlett, the only SEC coach to stop LSU thus far says, "You won't believe this boy until you see him in action. He has every shot, every move you could imagine."

There's a chance Pistol Pete may be even hotter if he returns from mid-semester break with a few more pointers he picked up at home. His father, Press Maravich, is the LSU coach.

Pressure Builds On Holy Cross As Bruins Bow

By The Associated Press

As if Holy Cross didn't have enough trouble with a game against UCLA Friday night, now the Crusaders have heaped upon themselves added pressure.

"They'll (the Bruins) come into Madison Square Garden quite loose now that they've lost," Holy Cross Coach Jack Donohue said earlier this week. "And if we win Wednesday night against Colgate, we'll be on a two-game winning streak. That can hurt us with pressure," he quipped.

For what it's worth, the pressure is there now after the Crusaders breezed by Colgate 98-81 Wednesday night for only their seventh victory in 12 games.

The pressure is also building for Louisiana State, which stomped Clemson 104-81 for its 10th victory against two losses, despite a meager 33 points by Pete Maravich. The triumph was the third straight for the Tigers, who must face nationally ranked Southeastern Conference foes Kentucky twice and Tennessee and Vanderbilt once each in their next four games.

In other games on a light college basketball night, West Virginia trimmed Penn State 77-63; Temple nudged Rider 75-73 and Penn upset LaSalle 57-45 in a Philadelphia doubleheader; Western Michigan hammered Miami of Ohio 91-71, and Marshall tumbled Ohio U. 82-73.

Also St. Peters swamped Siena 98-72, TCU routed visiting Austin 117-78, host DePaul belted Illinois Wesleyan 93-77, and Evansville whipped Southern Illinois 52-45 at home.

Donohue, who coached UCLA's Lew Alcindor in high school, will be facing the All-American in college for the first time and few people give him and his Crusaders much chance.

"Unless we play real well Wednesday night," he said, retaining his sense of humor, "they may be favored."

Holy Cross was impressive against visiting Colgate, particularly 6-foot-4 Keith Hockstein, who scored 26 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Naceo Giles added 19.

LSU was equally impressive, although its home court fans left unhappy because Maravich, the nation's leading scorer, fouled out after only 7½ minutes of the second half. His point total was 12 below his season average.

Alcindor's Eye Injury Improves

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lew Alcindor's injured left eye is not expected to keep him from two weekend UCLA basketball games in New York City.

UCLA quoted the 7-foot-1 All-American's doctor Wednesday as saying Alcindor "is making improvement but still has minimal double vision."

Alcindor was hurt Jan. 12 in a game against California.

The Bruins play Holy Cross Friday and Boston College Saturday.

UCLA's 6-foot-6 forward Edgar Lacey remained in Los Angeles after failing to show up for practice Monday and Tuesday.

Lacey refused Wednesday to confirm or deny reports that he'll quit the squad. Coach John Wooden said Lacey has not been dismissed.

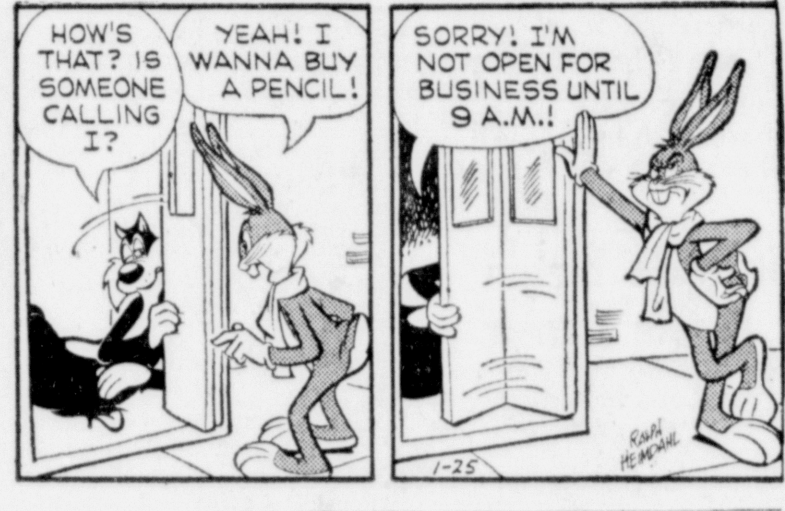

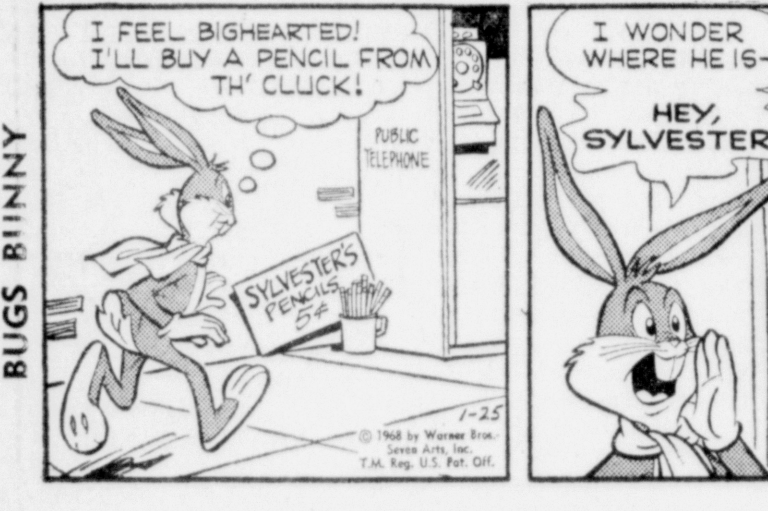

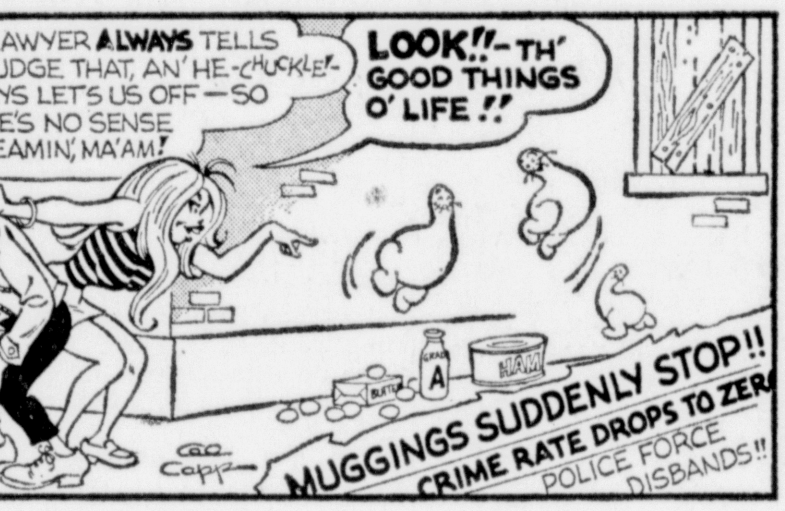

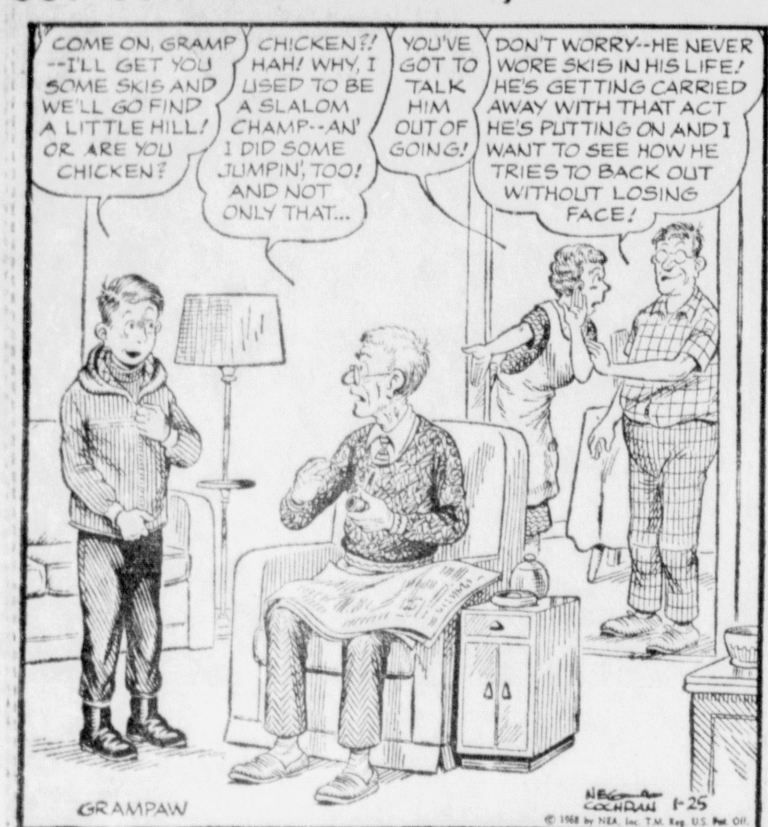

Lacey's father, Edgar Sr., reported that his son was hurt by a statement Wooden made to sports writers Monday. Wooden said in answer to a question that he took Lacey out of Saturday's game with Houston for good because Lacey had been ineffective and didn't seem to want to go back in.

Lacey left the game with 11 minutes left in the first half. With Lacey guarding him, Houston's Elvin Hayes had scored 10 points. Hayes later scored another 29 and Houston won the game 71-69, snapping UCLA's 47-game winning streak.

Large Field Seen For Snow Derby

HERMANVILLE — Plans are being completed for the 2nd annual Snowmobile Derby at Hermansville Lake Sunday, Feb. 4, sponsored by the William Anderson Sportsman's Club.

Registration will begin at 11 a. m. at the Croatian Hall with the race program starting at 11:30.

Only stock machines are eligible.

President Leonard LaCourse said that most of the work for the derby has been completed and that plans are being made for a large number of entrants.

Four events will include the obstacle race, oval track race, straight ahead drag race and the powderpuff race for women. Spectators will be able to see the machines in competition at all times. Trophies will be awarded to the winners.

In addition to work at the lake by club members, the Hermansville High School senior class will have charge of concession stands; the Hermansville Rescue Squad will be on hand and the Hermansville Volunteer Fire Dept. will provide the generator for power. Hermansville Boy Scouts are conducting the booster button sale.

Club officials are confident that the derby will be larger and more successful than last year.

Mrs. Nordstrom Taken By Death

Mrs. Bertha (Johanna) Nordstrom, 77, of Perkins died at 7:40 p.m. Wednesday at St. Francis Hospital. She was born Jan. 9, 1891 in Kewaskum, Wis. and had resided in Perkins since 1919.

Mrs. Nordstrom was a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Gladstone. Her husband, Charles N. died Jan. 15, 1965.

She is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Esther Bell and Mrs. Jane Strohm of Hobart, Ind., Mrs. Anna Fuhrman of Perkins and Mrs. Clara Henes of Flat River, Mo.

Friends may call at the Skradski Funeral Home after 4 p.m. Friday and funeral services will be conducted at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 2 p.m. Saturday with Rev. Theophil Hoffman officiating. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest Cemetery. The body will be removed to the church at 1 p.m. Saturday.

U.P. Educators To Hear Editor Of Daily Press

MARQUETTE — The Upper Peninsula Chapter of the Michigan Association of School Boards and Administrators will hold its annual mid-winter meeting Friday and Saturday at Northern Mich. University.

Also meeting on campus will be U. P. counselors, elementary school principals and secondary school principals.

Theme of the MASBA meeting is "School Boards in a Democratic Society."

Featured speakers at the gathering will include Jean Worth, editor of the Escanaba Daily Press; Charles Kelley, Detroit attorney; and Dr. Julius Barbour, MASB executive director, East Lansing.

Believe H-Bomb Ruptured In B52 Greenland Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. nuclear scientists in Greenland assume that one or more of four missing hydrogen bombs ruptured in Sunday's B52 crash, strewing uranium or plutonium over an icy bay, sources report.

The report followed Wednesday's official disclosure that pieces of at least one of the weapons had been found at the crash site seven miles southwest of Thule Air Force Base.

"Since there is radiation on the ice and on the parts we are assuming that at least one of the bombs ruptured," an official said.

The radiation—detected on the boots of scientists they dogged drivers and other helpers —was characterized as negligible.

Danger Slight

The Pentagon says it is alpha radiation which does not penetrate the skin. The only precaution necessary for men working in the area is to wash their foot-gear after work.

The Pentagon's latest statement referred to the bomb pieces as "weapons-associated hardware" because, as a spokesman put it, "it isn't what the layman would normally think of as part of a bomb."

The small parts were categorized as pieces of the "bomb assembly." No other details were given. The interior composition of an atomic weapon is top secret.

Sources said scientists could not determine immediately whether the pieces came from the same bomb. Less than a dozen chunks of bomb were found.

Daylight Short

Search teams have barely had a chance to go over the area. A source estimated the actual amount of search time since Sunday as four to five hours. Arctic darkness has shrouded the scene most of the time. And stormy weather forced cancellation of the 64-hour dogged trip from the coast to the impact area Wednesday.

There are only about two hours "sub-twilight" each day in the polar darkness.

Nor is the ice flat. "It's more like a stormy ocean with the waves frozen in place," said one official.

The air force bomber apparently disintegrated. Bits of debris and what appears to be a "fuel-burn pattern" extend over an area 50 by 500 yards.

Sources acknowledged the possibility that the bombs are imbedded in the seven-foot-thick ice covering North Star Bay or perhaps at the bottom of its 800-foot depth.

If so, any search could extend longer than the 80 days the Navy spent retrieving another hydrogen bomb off the Spanish coast in 1966. The ice covering North Star Bay does not thaw until about June.

Evelyn H. Hill Dies Wednesday In Ironwood

Evelyn H. Hill, 77, of 2200 Ludington St. died at 10:50 a.m. Wednesday at Grand View Hospital in Ironwood. She was born Jan. 14, 1891.

Survivors include a brother, Evar Anderson of Ironwood and several nieces and nephews, including, Arthur G. Anderson, Clyde Anderson and Lawrence Gaffin, all of Escanaba.

Friends may call at the Anderson Funeral Home from 4 to 9 p.m. Friday and complete funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday at the funeral home with Rev. Walfred E. Nelson officiating. Burial will be in the family lot of Lakeview Cemetery.

House Tackles Lower Court Reorganization

LANSING (AP) — Still determined to tackle the staggering job of setting up a statewide lower court system, the House judiciary Committee finished work Wednesday on a "compromise" version of its court reorganization bill.

One voice was immediately raised in opposition to parts of the complex, 51-page measure, which needs two-thirds legislative majorities to become law.

But chief sponsor Donald Holbrook, R-Clare, said he hoped other lawmakers who helped doom a similar bill in last year's special session would be won over by changes made this year.

The key change is a new formula for covering costs of the proposed new courts—designed to replace Municipal Courts and Justice Courts beginning in 1969 and for sharing the revenue they produce.

It was thought necessary to pass some lower court bill this year, in time for candidates for the proposed new district judgeships to file for places on the primary election ballot.

Otherwise, observers warn, Circuit Courts and the Court of Appeals may become jammed with minor cases when the offices of justice of the peace and Circuit Court commissioners are abolished Dec. 31 by the State Constitution.

Wayne County officials, fearing the new court system would cost more money than they could raise, helped scuttle the court bill last year. Under Holbrook's new formula, Wayne County would not pay any part of the courts' expenses.

The Wayne County cities and townships outside Detroit would be grouped into districts, and the municipalities in each district would share both the costs and the revenues of the courts. Detroit would be left outside the system.

Holbrook said he thought the Wayne County communities—and cities in 12 outstate counties which would constitute judicial districts by themselves—would not be injured financially by loss of their Municipal Courts.

While reaction from the cities was slower in coming, reaction by one Northern Michigan legislator to the committee bill was immediate.

Charging fellow committee members with "steamrolling" the measure to the House floor, Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, said it was unsatisfactory because not every county in the state would have at least one district judge.

COZY SCENE between Farley Granger and Lee Bouvier is part of television production of "Laura," television debut vehicle for Miss Bouvier, actually Princess Lee Radziwill, sister of Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy.

Bouvier Debut Is Not Outstanding

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Lee Bouvier made her heralded television debut in ABC's "Laura" Wednesday night. It was not, alas, a particularly memorable two hours.

Miss Bouvier—Jacqueline Kennedy's sister and in private life Princess Radziwill—played the title role, a girl in the center of a group of terribly civilized, unpleasant, lying characters.

Her lack of professional acting experience was quite evident throughout since the character of Laura remained a sort of blur from beginning to end—one never felt much about the character, pro or con.

Others Troubled

The adaptation from the old hit movie was a slow-moving drama in which the five principals seemed to roam constantly around beautifully furnished rooms, pouring and sipping drinks, and talking, talking, talking. All except Laura, who actually had few lines, which Miss Bouvier delivered in the tentative, almost cautious manner of the star of a high school play.

She was not, however, the only one who had trouble in the framework of an implausible murder story. George Sanders was stuck in the role of a middle-aged bon vivant whose protegee she had been. Farley Granger was the amoral young gigolo to whom Laura was attracted while he was having an affair with her aunt, Arlene Francis, as the aunt, was not treated kindly by the cameras but did succeed in making her unpleasant character seem faintly human. Robert Stack played the detective in the wooden, expressionless style he first adopted for "The Untouchables."

As soon as we learned at midpoint that the murdered girl was not Laura, the show settled down to permitting the main characters to tell lies. The revelation of the murderer at the end of a very long two hours seemed to come as an anticlimax.

Awkward Material

Miss Bouvier's family connections and her recent decision to become a professional performer caused unusual interest in her initial television appearance. It is unfortunate that she took the plunge in a starring role, since it takes time and experience to convert even a devoted amateur into a professional.

It is even more unfortunate that she—and her fellow performers—had such awkward material with which to work. Although the program, taped in England, was handsomely mounted, the camera work was uneven, and the depth of color varied unpredictably from very light to very dark tones, even changing abruptly in the middle of scenes.

"Laura" was not any great shakes as a suspense tale. Miss Bouvier did not emerge as a latter day Sarah Bernhardt. But it was still interesting to watch her debut. And "Laura" was a great fashion show. Miss Bouvier's costumes, from negligees to street clothes, were high fashion.

Card of Thanks

Jedrich

I wish to thank my friends, neighbors and relatives for their kindness and sympathy in my bereavement. The death of my husband, John Jedrich. We are grateful to Father Jordan Telles, OFM, Father Eugene Rousseau, OFM, Father Isidore Walter, OFM, for their comforting words and prayers for those who sent food, donated cars, flowers, and Mass stipends. Your kindness will never be forgotten.

Mrs. John Jedrich and Relatives

In Memoriam

Ketcham

In memory of Violet Ketcham who passed away two years ago, January 25, 1966. In his arms God bore our Mother. To a land so far away. No one knows how much we miss her. Time may heal a heart that's broken, But the scar is always there. Sadly missed by the Family Of Violet Ketcham

1. Announcements

NOTICE OF WATERMAIN CONSTRUCTION
Pursuant to resolution adopted by the City Council, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN:
That the City of Escanaba proposes to make the following improvements, viz:
8' Watermain and laterals on 8th Avenue South from South 23rd Street to Willow Creek Road.
12' Watermain on South 23rd Street from 14th Avenue, South to West side of Lake Shore Drive.
That specifications, plans and estimates of cost have been filed in my office and are open for public inspection.
The Council has designated as the district to be assessed for said improvement, all the lots and parcels of land fronting and abutting upon said proposed improvement. Said lots are to be assessed according to frontage thereon.
The Council will meet at its regular session on the 1st day of February, 1968, and will hear objections to the improvement as aforesaid, and to the district to be assessed.

New Books For Escanaba

Among new books in the Escanaba Public Library are:

"Countdown 68: Profiles For The Presidency" by William Schechter. An evaluation of philosophies and background, the relative political strengths and weakness of the eight men who will dominate this year—Nixon, Romney, Reagan, Percy, Rockefeller, Johnson, Humphrey and Kennedy.

"The Art of Hunting Big Game In North America" by Jack O'Connor.

"The Blast of War, 1939-1945" by Harold MacMillan. MacMillan's personal account of World War II.

"Jealous Mistress" by Robert Traver. Robert Traver is the pseudonym of John D. Voelker. Of Ishpeming, he was prosecuting attorney of Marquette County from 1934 to 1952 and is a former Michigan Supreme Court justice.

"Oops! or, Life's Awful Moments" by Art Linkletter.

"Light at Midnight" by Erica Wallach. A GI's young wife, who was falsely accused as a spy and imprisoned first in Berlin and then in Russia. Tells of her experience.

"The Way Things Work: an Illustrated Encyclopedia of Technology." Explains the way things work from a ball-point pen to a computer.

"How To Make The Rest Of Your Life The Best Of Your Life" by Henry Legler. How not to retire from life when you retire from work.

"Skiers' Paradise: 100 Best Ski Runs in North America" by Morten Lund and Bob Laurie. Known or unknown ski trails from Alaska and Canada to Carolina Smokies, from Camelback, Pennsylvania to Santa Fe, New Mexico are graded for beginning, intermediate or expert skiers and are described in detail.

"Goethe's Faust: Its Genesis And Purport" by Eudo C. Mason. Professor Mason shows that while Goethe continually hovers on the brink of an extreme individualism, he ultimately maintains a lofty ethical principle which is, in his own eyes, Christian or at least quasi-Christian.

"Sarah Morris Remembers" by D. E. Stevenson.

"The Song of David Freed" by Abraham Rothberg.

"To Brooklyn With Love" by Gerald Green.

"Time For Outrage" by Amelia Bean.

"House Under Water" by Len Deighton.

New Serum May Aid Transplants

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Doctors here have devised another tool—a sort of biological blindfold—to help lessen the great danger of rejection following organ transplants, without killing the patient with massive drug doses.

This new serum, antilymphocyte globulin, or simply ALG, already has been used with impressive results in kidney and liver transplants at the University of Colorado Medical Center. It may prove to be useful in future heart transplants.

The serum was developed by the transplant research team at the medical center. It works on white blood cells called lymphocytes, the body's microscopic warriors that fight off strangers, whether they be germs bringing infection or the protein of an organ transplanted from another person.

Blocks Rejection
ALG "blindfolds" these lymphocytes to the presence of the new organ, rendering them incapable of rejecting the new kidney or liver.

The doctors say ALG is no panacea—"there's nothing magical about it," said one—but they see it as a promising step along the way to controlling rejection, the big bugaboo facing any transplant, whether it be kidney or heart.

Though some questions about ALG remain unanswered, the Denver team, headed by Dr. Thomas E. Starzl, reports the survival rate of kidney patients one year after transplant—with related donors—has risen from 70 to 95 per cent. About 60 kidney patients have received ALG since mid-1966.

Five liver transplant patients were given the injections. Three still are living, the only known survivors of such operations.

In both kidney and liver studies, the fatalities were not related to the serum.

Work With Animals
Preliminary work on heart transplant is under way with animals in the laboratories here, but the transplant team has emphasized it is preliminary, and no immediate attempt with man is foreseen.

However, Dr. Gilbert Blount Jr., head of the university's cardiology department, said in a speech in Texas the university should be capable of conducting a heart transplant by spring.

Dr. Christiaan Barnard, who has performed two human heart transplants in South Africa, said he and his associates "have thought a lot about this serum."

We have carried out a lot of experiments with it, but have not used it clinically. There is still a lot of uncertainty and danger in it. In a new operation we do not want to risk complications."

The most common weapons used to head off rejection of new organs have been the drugs azathioprine and prednisone.

But massive doses of prednisone can open the way to diabetes, decalcification, ulcers, Cushing's disease and high blood pressure. It can mask infection until the body is ravaged, and throw body chemistries drastically out of balance.

Azathioprine, or imuran, is also heavily toxic in large doses.

Doctors here found that by giving ALG just before and up to four months after transplant, the prednisone dosage often could be halved, and the amount of azathioprine significantly reduced, without harming function of the new kidney.

Has Drawbacks
Antilymphocyte globulin is obtained by injecting horses with human lymph nodes, spleens and thymus, then extracting the serum from the immunized animals and refining it.

The drawbacks to its use include evidence that overdoses can lead to nephritis in the transplanted kidney. That is the same disease that in many cases destroyed the patient's own kidneys. However, biopsies of the first eight kidneys implanted in patients getting ALG showed no sign of this.

ALG, like other known immunosuppressive agents, is not selective. While it dampens the body's capability of fighting off the new organ, it also lowers resistance to infection.

Pain, fever and tenderness at the injection site almost always accompany the ALG shots. Patients often develop hives. Some patients developed more serious reactions, and injections were halted in the case of eight. But in no case was the patient's life endangered, and after more than 2,000 doses there have been no drug-related fatalities.

The Constance Warwick was the first war frigate ever built. It became a part of the British navy in 1652.

YOUR PHARMACIST

By years of training, your pharmacist is an exacting scientist.

As a member of the community health team, he is a dedicated professional man.

Yet he is a businessman engaged in serving your needs not only as a supplier of medicines but as a merchant whose stocks reflect the daily needs of his customers.

And, too, he's a fellow townsman, a taxpayer, a neighbor — one who has a personal concern for the health and welfare of your family.
